

the most unfortunate person in the world

HONEST AND RIGHTEOUS, BUT SADDEST, AND THE MOST DETESTED PERSON IN HUMAN HISTORY, ALSO THE PERSON MOST SLANDERED, RUMORED ABOUT, TRAMPLED UPON, BETRAYED, DECEIVED, AND ALERTED ABOUT BY AUTHORITY IN HUMAN HISTORY

thursday, july 31, 2008

coincidentally helping the authority

Today i want to relate my reflection on what happened in the German Lady's meetup on June 20, the one where we were supposed to see "Brick Lane". Before we went to the movie theater, we were hanging out in the Mexican restaurant Fiesta Grande on Colorado Road. I passed my portrait of the German Lady around ("Karin Slightly Arabesque", as yet only half-finished), and that's when "John from Glendale" asked me if anyone else in my family had artistic talent, and when i answered no, he made the comment that, usually, a talented musician for example would have siblings or other relatives that also had musical talent. I only realized later on that this is the comment that John was instructed by the Authority or the Department of Homeland Security and their contractors to make so that he could afterwards report this (perhaps together with other members of the German Lady's meetup) back to law enforcement or whatever authority as "evidence" that I didn't do all the drawings I had done but that the "fake Lawrence" had done them. Law enforcement or whoever could then report through the chain of command to the International Court where this would be presented as "evidence". What's remarkable was that I in my ignorance made a joke that i was then probably not related to my family at all since I was the only one in it endowed with artistic talent. i was partly being sarcastic, letting out some of my long-term dissatisfaction with my family members.

Now remember I talked about how the planners in Homeland Security or whatever instructed the German Lady to lure me to see "Live and Become" probably in order to argue falsely in the International Court that I was merely pretending to be a member of my family, not the real Lawrence that was a member of my family. This joke I made out of long-term anger with my family members couldn't then have delighted the authority more. They must have presented it to the court as "evidence" of my "admission" that, indeed, I was not the Lawrence C h i n that was a member of my supposedly distinguished family (with my grandfather being a three-star general in Taiwan and all). You see how often I would incidentally and coincidentally help the authority in my destruction?

I never really take pleasure in being related to my family anyway. What the big theory i wrote

The Path toward Scientific Enlightenment international court of justice

Letter of Petition and Law Suit

My history of machine malfunctioning Secret History of the ICJ

my older blog

The Feefee Blog

blog archive

- ▶ 2010 (41)
- ▶ 2009 (1)
- ▼ 2008 (150)
 - ▶ December (11)
 - ▶ November (3)
 - ▶ October (22)
 - ▶ September (12)
 - ▶ August (18)
 - ▼ July (13)
 - coincidentally helping the authority
 - awful appointment
 - the question
 - different goals
 - the heroine of the western world
 - still, non-existence
 - About Karin
 - choosing my prison guards
 - case ended
 - the end of illusion
 - second thought
 - the german lady's birthday and

I would like to protect is my work (writings, drawings), though. I

posted by 10061973 at 8:47 pm 0 comments

wednesday, july 30, 2008

awful appointment

awful appointment with greg the psychologist today. there is the possibility that he will falsely report to law enforcement or whichever authority saying i'm a danger to myself so that authority can have a pretext to have the police come to me and put me in the hospital -- their long-time dream. let's see if this will happen.

posted by 10061973 at 2:39 pm 0 comments

tuesday, july 29, 2008

the question

i'm very tired of the fact that wherever i go people will immediately ask me what my nationality is or where i am from. this happened too sunday at the church. the people at the church knew me for 2 years, and never asked me this question before. and lately the owners of the restaurant near my home where i went frequently have started asking me the question too. they were obviously all instructed by authority to ask me the questions. knowing that it was a ploy by the authority, i either wavered, didn't answer, or just lied, refusing to divulge the fact that i'm of chinese ancestry. but it didn't matter very much. the owners of the restaurant, for example, would just make up things: "you said you are from china, right?" of course i never told him i was from china because i wasn't from china. the authority wants me to answer in such a way that i identify myself as a chinese national, and if i don't do that they would force-feed, simply having the people asking me the question lie that i have so answered. i have never been sure why the authority instructed the whole population of any place i was in to ask me what my nationality was. this happened in belgium when i was there in february, and it happened constantly in the german lady's meetup when i came back from europe. i suppose that, before, the authority used this tactic as part of the fake evidence-collection operation. if i answered i was of chinese origin, the person who asked me the question would report to the police that that dangerous schizophrenic said he was chinese (and if i answered otherwise the questioner would just lie anyway), then the police would report it to the intelligence services, and then the intelligence services could take the report to the international court for the lawyers on the side of the united states to make their false argument that this schizophrenic strongly identified himself as a chinese national, was hence a chinese nationalist, and so was motivated to "pretend to be the fake lawrence", fly to china, and get the united states sued.

but what could be the purpose of instructing the church members to ask me the question again now that the court case has mostly been settled? thus far i can only think of one reason: in order for the church members to report to law enforcement that a dangerous looking schizophrenic who identified himself as chinese is now in their midst, so that law enforcement, cooperating with the interpol, can continue to trace my whereabouts through these informal reports from china and europe through the german lady's meetup in los angeles to the church in long beach.

posted by 10061973 at 10:16 pm 0 comments

all about movies

dismissal

▶ June \(31\)

▶ May \(19\)

▶ April \(21\)

contributors

10061973

10061973

sunday, july 27, 2008

different goals

earlier in the week the german lady scheduled a group event to see "ahmed, say something funny" for next tuesday, but for two days only 1 other person signed up (together with the guest the german lady said she was going to bring with her). i signed up, with a sarcastic comment that even though i didn't like the comedian, i was going to see the documentary anyway because she chose it, thinking that this could perhaps be another of authority's force-feed trying to frame me into a racial jokes-loving jerk and that i wanted to begin helping the german lady ruin me again. but as soon as i did, she canceled the event, writing to me that i shouldn't see a movie just because she chose it and that i should just come for the next event. i thought she might feel insulted by my comment so i wrote her back immediately apologizing and saying i did want to come after all if she no longer found my comment upsetting. but she wrote me again immediately saying i shouldn't want to see a movie "for the wrong reason" and "so, see you at the next event." then it became evident that she really didn't want me to come at all but wanted to enjoy the movie in the company of the other person she said she was going to bring with her. i therefore said i will then see her at the next event, which is a painful two week away.

the fact is that the german lady wishes me to just disappear now that she has finished the operation of fake-evidence collection with me, but since of course she couldn't really just kick me out, she has decided that she will only allow me to appear when large enough number of people will show up to serve as buffer against me so that she could pretend i don't exist. that i shouldn't see the movie "for the wrong reason" was a signal to me that she did not want me to go to her group just because i wanted to interact with her and that her goal for me from now on was "enjoying the event" (be it the movie or concert or whatever) and nothing more. my goal is of course quite different, i.e. to make friends, and especially to become part of the network of her meetup. this is definitely not what she wants at all. she does not want me to be part of her meetup and does not want to interact with me or know anything about me or be known to me, but only tolerates me as a stranger doing something fun with her friends. her goal for me felt unbearable. she is not interested in leading the second phase of the authority's operation after all -- if there should really be a second phase: continuing to help law enforcement to build up the fake profile homeland security has invented about me, perhaps. but i could not bring myself to leaving her alone and still want to attend the next event and try to interact with her. this time it's different: the pain from abandonment after being used like that is just so great that i could not let her depart like that. as the next event is two week away, she's clearly trying to wean me off as she was doing the beginning of this month when she canceled all the events for two weeks, hoping that my emotional attachment to her would lessen. but i can't.

the psychological pain from all this magnified so greatly last night that i literally had to scream. i felt like a terminally ill patient.

the german lady is not interested in being the heroine of the western world. she did the operation out of her sense of patriotism; she wanted to help germany and united states and their allies in destroying the chinese intelligence service through international court order. now that the job is done, she's tired and shuts the door, oblivious of the recognition other people would seek in her shoes.

i just wish ala would go back to her -- if they indeed had an argument -- as i have tried to persuade him to do with two emails i sent him (to no use, of course). the danger is of course that i might have even pissed him off too with the persuasion. not a wise action.

i've begun going to the church again, and i had my first new appointment on the past wednesday with a psychologist, greg, whom i've seen 5 years ago. in august last year i saw him for a few sessions but he dropped me after that, probably due to homeland security or law enforcement interference. he didn't want the troublesome role of informant but just wanted to do some proper therapy. but this time he accepted me back graciously. why? there is the possibility that this time he accepts working as an informant against me for the authority because of the enormous amount of benefits he will receive for this, and because he hates china and therefore me just like everyone else does. it's very likely that he will be reporting to law enforcement behind my back after each of our therapy sessions -- a distorted version of what i told him might still end up in the international court and UN security council -- even though he was emphatic that he had no plan of doing so: why would the authority let me see a therapist without impediment? but despite all this i decided to see him anyway and tell him my story of my struggle with homeland security leading up to my frustration with not being able to be part of the german lady's circle, because i needed someone to know me. if there should be a second phase of the operation and the german lady is not willing to lead it, it's the church and the therapist that i shall watch out for. i have to resist, only because i have difficulty in letting the german lady depart like that after exploiting me. i'm not sure if this is all that fair to her.

i don't think, under normal circumstances, anyone else would think this is not fair to the german lady. but from her perspective all must be justified, because she considers me an enemy of the western world that deserves no mercy in being exploited and destroyed like that (i.e. this is not a normal circumstance).

posted by 10061973 at 10:34 pm 0 comments

friday, july 25, 2008

the heroine of the western world

in the past few days i have realized that the import of my case at the international court might have been even greater than i have thought. in which case, all the governments of the western world which have participated in the law suit on the side of the united states, listen: you would not have collected all the fake evidence and settled the case once and for all without Karin Z. i would not have gone to the meetups at all nor seen any of these movies -- the source of most of the "evidence" -- without her being there. Karin Z is the heroine of the western world. remember that.

on the other hand, do feel guilty if, after all that she has done for the western world, you guys have merely fooled her like a donkey (i.e. not telling her the truth about the whole case). she deserves to partake of the mystical supper, to speak figuratively!

and next time i'll also let her take photos of me for law enforcement. but she will always be the only person i'll ever allow to take photos of me.

posted by 10061973 at 10:49 pm 0 comments

thursday, july 24, 2008

still, non-existence

i've become so nostalgic of the time when i first joined the german lady's meetups. although at that time she didn't pay much attention to me either, because she didn't dislike me and didn't mind my being there, i felt i was part of her group. i was happy then, very happy. i remember once in her german language meetup, when everyone got off his or her seat to see barbara showing off her photos on her laptop, i stayed in my seat and the german lady waived at me and asked me to come over and join them. when i got left out of the conversation she'd also come and say something to me.

these happy moments will never come again. last night was another of the german lady's meetup: movie, and then sushi restaurant afterwards. she clearly didn't want me there. she had her fun chat with everyone else and pretended that i didn't exist. i've been in the group for a year now and have learned the life of everyone, not just the german lady's, and yet no one knows a thing about me. no one ever asks me what i do everyday. everyone believes and is content with the lies about my life and about what happened to me in china which the authority has spread about me.

well, it is true that at least she was showing her genuine side to me; it would have made me feel worse if she put on a fake smile pretending to welcome me while wishing my disappearance deep inside.

this is the first reason for the enormous pain i'm in right now. the second reason is that she's basically abandoning me after exhausting my usefulness. you may ask me to look at things from her perspective: her exam is approaching and she's spending most of her time studying. when she gets a chance to get out, of course she'd rather see the faces of other people than your face flash in her face. but i know for sure that even under normal circumstances it would be like this too. i'm not worth the effort to know. before, in that golden time when she didn't dislike me, that was okay. but it was not okay now.

i long for the state of nibbana (how you say "nirvana" in the original pali), i.e. non-existence. or perhaps i should just emigrate to a war-torn third world country with a broken infrastructure where people might not care about or even get the alerts about a "dangerous schizophrenic" so that it would be possible to make some friends.

p.s. there seems to have been some sort of argument between the german lady and ala. also, on tuesday night when i went to pasadena to give ala the birthday gift and the theater personnel refused my entry with my backpack, it could be because they had been alerted about me like all the store owners and thought me a troublesome individual.

posted by 10061973 at 9:18 pm 0 comments

wednesday, july 23, 2008

About Karin

The following is an entry in my private journal I made earlier. I decide to post it here as an exception.

The changing role of Karin

July 13 2008, by Lawrence C

I want to tell you briefly what according to my best guess today Karin was told back in September 2007, when law enforcement delegates under the direction of the Department of Homeland Security behind the scene first recruited her as an informant against me. She was most likely told the lies that I was a dangerous schizophrenic with radical left-wing political orientation and also with a history of stalking attractive tall "blonds" -- Karin with her towering height and whitish blond hair would presumably prompt the DHS or law enforcement officer(s) to say to her: "You fit the profile, unfortunately." What law enforcement officer(s) was (were) really referring to was in fact the conflict I had with a therapist of mine back in 2003. This therapist -- a beautiful tall blond woman from a Dutch-Jewish background -- was a very nice and charming person normally but could get very scary when she got angry. The problem between us was basically: there was some impropriety in the therapy room (not very serious and nothing sexual), then she regretted the impropriety and started playing tricks on me in order to bail herself out but leave me behind, and so I investigated her, discovering her original identity and another impropriety she had with another patient (a 60 year-old successful lawyer also from a Jewish background). She then wanted to sue me but she dropped the idea when it became clear that doing so would reveal that other impropriety of hers. So she ended up quitting the profession and sending out a bunch of alerts about me within the therapeutic profession.

It must be this piece of history -- as exaggerated by law enforcement under the direction of Homeland Security -- which had scared the shit out of Karin last September. She had become so frightened of me that she literally trembled when around me. She must have thought of me as one of those stereotypical psychopathic stalking serial killer, and afterwards her help was enlisted by law enforcement in the investigation of me. For example, she and Rolf now together tried to blast liberal outburst in front of me in order to lure me to participate and frame me into a dangerous radical liberal.

The Department of Homeland Security's (or Homeland Security Secretary's) real purpose in sending its agents or law enforcement delegates to Karin was of course to discredit me by making me look crazy and dangerous after I showed her the letter summarizing Homeland Security's disruption of CIA's recruitment operation on me and their subsequent vengeance on me. As they wanted to hide their long-time investigation and surveillance of me from Karin -- what was told in the letter -- they most likely ordered my psychologist Deborah (who remember knew the entire CIA-DHS story) to report to the police and others in the therapeutic profession that I had a history of stalking (half-true) and that I was entering a dangerous period of delusion with my FBI-CIA-DHS "fantasy" (false). If she refused to lie like that they would throw her in jail. The police could then come to Karin with Deborah's "reports" to discredit me under the pretext of protecting her from such dangerous individual as they said I was while at the same time recruiting her as an informant against me, all this with the help and intermediary of Rolf who was already recruited as their informant or "infiltrant" in Karin's meetups to watch over me in the early summer of 2007.

When I came back from Taiwan in late October 2007 and rejoined Karin's group things got a bit better. While her Homeland Security handler must have instructed her to not show fear toward me in an effort to better pretend that nothing was going on (that she wasn't helping authority investigate me), she seems also to have realized I wasn't as dangerous and inconsiderate of others' (her) perspective as she had thought based on what she had been told. So, in any case, she wasn't frightened of me anymore. But she still helped the authority from time to time in "investigating" me by luring me to Homeland Security set-ups devised to "get the angry liberal out of me" or by blasting anti-government news on the meetup website message board trying to lure me to participate and to output the liberal which Homeland Security believed was inside me. Her work as an informant against me was extremely hurtful to me as my liking of her increased and my desire to be one of her friends magnified (you can't become friend with someone who cares nothing about you save secretly helping the authority ruin you). Thus my desire to move to China and get out of the trap once and for all. But by December 2007 somehow I had the feeling that the same-old CIA's elite unit (what I shall call "my best friend's circle") had now got involved too and that she received the new instruction to treat me nice in order to keep me happy so as to prevent me from going to China.

But after I came back from China things are again different. Her new assignment consists mainly in collecting my information so as to report negatively (and falsely, really) on me to law enforcement as much as possible (remember, Homeland Security needs to hide their surveillance of me and so the police have to pretend to investigate me from scratch using reports they gather from common people who informants and secret agents pretend to be) and in enticing me to do things that would get me in trouble in order for law enforcement to have a reason to frame me into the profile that they need of me: a super-intelligent schizophrenic (that oxymoron) who harbors dangerous belief (such as N*zisim and radical left-wing politics) and tendency (such as p*dophilia and stalking) and embodies the worst qualities a human being can have (such as uncontrolled sex-mania and obsession with doing espionage for foreign powers). All these details are documented all over in my following blog posts. More importantly, she was probably also visited by representatives from the German government as well and her help -- along with that from her groups' members -- enlisted in collecting fake evidence for the authority to use in my case in the International Court and UN Security Council. (See my next journal entry for this.) In any case, she is now more a law enforcement informant out to get me with an enthusiasm she has never had before.

posted by 10061973 at 3:22 pm 0 comments

choosing my prison guards

on monday night jacqueline announced on the meetup website's message board that she and ala and a few others were going to see the movie "encounter at the end of the earth" in pasadena on tuesday night. i went to join them last night after the movie was over because i had meant to give to ala the birthday present i had prepared for him (a portrait i had made of him and a birthday card i had drawn with a cartoonish portrait of him on it). we went to the middle eastern restaurant to chat for two hours. this really was the first time -- and the last time it should be -- that i went to a group meeting which the german lady did not attend. in the beginning the conversation revolved around the movie and ala's coming trip to antarctica for work, but soon jacqueline steered it toward the scarier topics of christian's (a active member of the french quarter) racist joke and america's national debt ("how can we be called the richest nation in the world when we have a trillion dollar of national debt... and we owe most of these to china and japan", jacqueline "complained). in other words, i had the impression that jacqueline was instructed by homeland security to run their framing show in the german lady's absence. (she did also take out her camera and was ready to take photos of me until i started dodging it.) the tactic would be the same: although i never really said a word in this conversation of hers, she (and perhaps with others) could very well report to the authority which the german lady's meetup had been reporting to that "WE were talking about racist jokes and complaining about national debt" -- in other words, merely by the fact that i was there and unable to change the topic of conversation, i was made a "participant" in this awful conversation -- or even that "someone was complaining about our national debt... i don't remember who it was... maybe it was him (referring to me)". as law enforcement officers note that down in my file, i would be thus framed again into an "angry liberal" in the official record.

so it was quite possible that homeland security was at it again -- framing me into an angry liberal; even when i'm clearly not, they'd do so through force-feeding -- and i'm back to exactly the same place one year ago when they started this. the purpose? well, now that my case at the international court in hague and at the UN security council in new york is most likely settled, homeland security will most likely begin their "prosecution phase" with me. they will probably not try to get law enforcement to prosecute me for any criminal offense, but will create reasons for law enforcement to lock me up in a mental asylum for being too dangerous and delusional. we'll see. a new project then they will have to give the german lady's meetup members to accomplish, and this may be the beginning. now who is this jacqueline? i have no interest in her and no care for her. i'd rather have the german lady begin this new phase and harm me -- however much pain it will cause me. this is why i'll keep enforcing my rule of never attending a meetup without the german lady in it.

in other words, i don't want some jacqueline or anyone else to be the guards of my prison of deception and framing. but only the same old folk: the german lady, gabi, ala. i'll only attend meetup when these people are attending.

posted by 10061973 at 3:05 pm 0 comments

saturday, july 19, 2008

case ended

last night was the german lady's german language meetup. she only bothered to come during the last hour and when she arrived, the first thing she did was take photos of me. i in my supreme sadness didn't feel like helping her this time and wouldn't let her do it, just lowering my head to hide my face. but she managed to put the camera on her lap as if she were done with taking photos, and then surreptitiously pressed the button to take a photo of me. that's the instruction she received before coming, her mission of the night: remember to take a good photo of him, her handler must have said to her on the phone.

the german lady has become increasingly distant from me, absolutely not wanting to converse with me at all. she no longer bothered to sit next to me, and of course she never showed any interest in knowing anything about me at all. she never asked me any personal question; up to today she doesn't know anything about me at all, unlike the way she is with others. the reports she got from the police -- some true, some twisted, some false -- are for her quite sufficient. her distance is the most convincing proof that my case at international court at hague had at last come to an end. thanks for that piece of information! now that she is discarding me after exhausting my usefulness, i am stricken with indescribable sadness and this is why i didn't cooperate with her last night.

i have helped her half of the time in the past with her relentless destruction of me -- framing, mostly -- because she's such a good person, and she deserves all the benefits that both the american and german government grant her for her work on me. but i'm consumed by the unfulfillment of my own needs at the moment, and i can't help her right now.

posted by 10061973 at 9:47 pm 0 comments

thursday, july 10, 2008

the end of illusion

the german lady has no more meetup until the end of this month. she of course has a lot of studying to do, but all this is also an indication about what's going on in the international court in hague and the UN security council in new york. the german lady has pretty much accomplished what homeland security et al have instructed her to accomplish with me: collecting fake evidence that i'm pretending to be that fake lawrence, that i'm a schizophrenic who hallucinates from time to time, etc. the "evidence" is in order now, the discussion about me at icj and UN security council is about to come to an end at last, and there is not much left for her to do, save to discard me perhaps. the authority's priority after all is in settling my case, prosecuting me is secondary -- though that is not to say that they'll give it up.

i have no more value left for the german lady; she has got all the goodies that i can possibly offer her by staying in her trap: citizenship, money, recognition from both the united states and german government. other than studying she's probably at the moment also going out with her meetup bunch outside the meetup system -- to which i'll never get to participate. the illusion that i might be one of her friends someday has been definitively broken up by now.

posted by 10061973 at 4:43 pm 0 comments

saturday, july 5, 2008

second thought

it's very likely that the german lady has kept my social security number which i sent to her and used it already for purpose of harming me. when she wrote me an email saying she had deleted the information as soon as she saw it she was very likely just lying. not that i'm upset, because i was intending to help her harm me when i sent her the information.

posted by 10061973 at 6:17 pm 0 comments

the german lady's birthday and all about movies thursday night (Jul 3) was the german lady's 43rd birthday and a total of 13 of us went to a middle-eastern restaurant to celebrate. neither of the other two birthday stars -- ala and marianne, both of palestinian origin -- however showed up: A never explained why and in the beginning of our meeting the german lady said in front of me that M was sick with virus. i had the feeling that the german lady purposely made the comment for me to hear in order to deceive me. after all, they both suddenly were said to be not going to come as soon as i mentioned to the german lady in my emails that i wanted to bring them some birthday gifts. it's possible that they both were instructed by homeland security to pretend to be afraid of me and tell so to the german lady so that she could go report to law enforcement that more members were no longer showing up because i looked scary and scared them away (while in reality, of course, i always looked as docile as a piece of furniture sitting there quietly and ignored by others during the german lady's gatherings). remember the taiwanese girl ellissa? she hasn't come to any of the gatherings for several months now and this is most likely because she is pretending to be afraid of me under authority's instruction so that the german lady could report this to law enforcement or to the judge in order to add more damaging elements to my thick file of negative reports at law enforcement.

on monday night the german lady is supposed to take us to see another weird dark french film, ne le dis a personne. another attempt to frame me into something i'm not, that's for sure. now let me say something about my latest guess as to how homeland security has attempted to frame me with the movies for my meetup group. from "roman de gare" to "va, vis, et devienne" (live and become), the films which they have instructed the german lady to lure me to see have become a major source of information as to what has happened and could still be going on in the international court and UN security council about my case. i have already mentioned what most likely has been homeland security's final act at international court in early february this year. now it is quite easy to guess the purpose of these movies: as homeland security is falsely claiming that i'm merely pretending to be me but am really not me, they must have also made the false claim to the judges that i like to see movies with themes of one person pretending to be another, i.e. movies with stories that supposedly resemble my life stories. seeing the movies therefore allows me to figure out what exactly is the personage and life-story that homeland security is framing me into, while at the same time giving them the opportunity to report to the icj or UN security council as "evidence" that their manufactured version of my identity is indeed true. thus if i saw the movie "roman de gare" where the novelist didn't supposedly write her books but had someone else write them for her (i don't know the whole story because i walked out of the theater halfway into the movie), then homeland security would take this to the icj and present it as "evidence" that i was merely pretending to be me, didn't do any of the artworks that i lawrence c h i n had supposedly done, and had that fake lawrence do all the artworks for me to claim as my own. if i saw the movie "live and become" where the little ethiopian christian boy was sent by his mother to israel to pretend to be jewish, then homeland security would report this to the icj judges as "evidence" that i am not really me lawrence c h i n but was sent by my real mother (who is in fact non-existent, made up) to my family (which is now made into, not my real family, but my adoptive family) to pretend to be their child lawrence c h i n. in this way, homeland security gets to solidify their lies and win the law suit while i get to know what life story they have most likely framed me into in new york and hague even though everyone is supposed to keep the lies they have spread about me a secret from me. homeland security of course must also have instructed my family members to make false testimonies confirming that this new life i've been framed into is indeed true. the only problem is that, in both cases, "roman de gare" and "va, vis, et devienne", i have only seen half of the film because it was either too boring or too dark for me, so that i cannot guess at the entire story that homeland security has manufactured about me.

posted by 10061973 at 2:34 am 0 comments

wednesday, july 2, 2008

dismissal

the past saturday night was another meeting of the german lady's group at a restaurant. i withdrew from her groups because i wanted to be safe now that i had figured out what the "plan" was which she was cooperating with authority to bring about with me and what the (false) story was she and everyone were told about my china trip, but in the end i thought i'd rather enjoy the little bit of her that was left in the little bit of time that was left for me, and so i signed back on. but the last two emails i wrote her last week (which i don't bother to include here) and my neediness of her (withdrawing and then signing up again shortly) had simply repulsed her too much, and she has evidently dismissed me as living being worthy of attention by now and decided that from now on if i appear in her functions she'd pretend to be nice to me and throw me a word or two if i ask her something but that deep inside she'd hold no attention for me. it makes me feel so sad. how can i recover again in status in the german lady's heart?

that night the german lady took a lot of photos of me -- she was instructed to do so by law enforcement. they wanted her to take nice shots, so she did it again and again. the photos will be used in alerts about me and will most likely also get put into the database for biometric facial recognition system, so that wherever i go in the world i'll immediately be recognized by machines.

i have been merely trying to burn a dvd of all the filming i did of myself - drawing and doing other things. from the way that every computer i used for doing this would just break down in the middle of the way, i couldn't help but guess that perhaps my case really is still going on in the international court? (computers are all remote controllable by homeland security, remember that; the authority would then be afraid that the evidence that i am able to draw after all might get into the open.) why? i merely wish the german lady would believe that i actually did do all her portraits. perhaps she already believes it?

another suspicious sign is that the authority seems to have sent in many female secret agents to show up around me last week in an attempt to lure me to talk to them so that they could then complain to law enforcement saying that i harrassed them and thus add more negative reports to my thick file. i ignored all of them. the past sunday while i was simply lying down on the bus stop waiting for the bus to come an agent posing as a pedestrian came to me, started asking me if i was alright, and then called the ambulance. but i wasn't doing anything! i was just waiting for the bus! i immediately ran away knowing that that's another dirty trick of the authority to try to lock me up in the hospital and put me out of circulation.

i have already learned my lesson of not messing with the u.s. government. i'm doing the dvd thing for myself -- what am i supposed to do with all the video tapes? i wasn't anymore even expecting the german lady to see it -- she simply doesn't care.

i tried to help the german lady doing her informant job of busting me by sending her on monday night more information about me -- my CA ID and my social security number -- and it's not clear if she actually needed it. but this act clearly demonstrates just which side i'm on -- i'm on the german lady's side. if she's against me then i'll be on her side and against myself. but she wrote me in response on tuesday night:

"1. All I wanted last year was people's phone and e-mail in case we had to do short-term changes for any event.

Please don't ever send via e-mail again what you send last night - I deleted that as soon as I saw what it was - if someone gets a hold of that e-mail they have all the[y] would ever need for identity theft - you have to be very, very careful with that information!!!"

this could be another force-feed framing of authority's. that is, she could go to law enforcement and say i sent her pictures of my id and social security card and then something about identity theft was mentioned in our conversation; law enforcement would then purposely note down falsely in their file on me that "i was doing identity theft with my information" -- twisting things into something else -- and the homeland security lie that i pretended to be the fake lawrence and flew to china would then be further solidified. but i was merely trying to help the german lady; she's all i care about.

but the authority would at least be pleased that i have made their operation so much easier by developing such dependency on their operative. the german lady played the same trick last week under authority's instruction. on june 25th she wrote me:

"Hi Lawrence,

I don't want to talk to you on the phone because I don't have any time for that - there is nothing to talk about because I already told you that I don't have any doubts and I know that you did the drawings - nobody I know has ever doubted your skills, but only sincerely admired them because none of us can do what you do. Why do you torture yourself so much with those things? :(

Do you remember the 'reality check' you asked me for once - as to fears that are real and others that are not? This one is not real - nobody doubts your skills.
It is ok to have irrational fears - I know plenty of people who do - but you also have to believe people sometimes that they are not real - especially if the effect is - like in this case now - that you are hurting yourself with that."

see, she could then go report to law enforcement that we were corresponding and then something was said about my hurting myself, and law enforcement would then note down on their file on me that i was in danger of hurting myself based on hearsay -- they would purposely ignore in their file that it was simply the german lady saying it out of thin air and that i had neither mentioned hurting myself nor had hurt myself at all. justification for my involuntary hospitalization would then be reinforced. force-feed framing.

tomorrow is the german lady's birthday and we are all supposed to meet at a middle-eastern restaurant. if my impression is correct and the authority is nervous about my videos of my doing drawing then tomorrow night could be dangerous. the german lady could be instructed to call the cops on me to put me in the hospital...

it's absolutely disappointing that ala will not show up at the german lady's birthday dinner. i did a portrait of him just for him, as his birthday gift, to show him that i like him a lot. perhaps the german lady will go to his home afterwards and spend a private evening celebration with him. that'd be cool.

the group members could all be pretending to be afraid of me and report thusly to law enforcement in order to add to the level of "threat" law enforcement falsely claims i pose to the community.

when the conspiracy of the german lady's group has succeeded one day and i get put away for good, all the german lady's bunch might even get invited to oprah to tell their amazing story of how they mere ordinary people have cooperated fantastically in ridding the community and the nation of such an incredibly intractable threat and low life!

posted by 10061973 at 9:39 pm 0 comments

Newer Posts

Home

Older Posts