

The Third International Court of Justice Trial over the Suspect XII

Summary

1 January – 28 February, 2017

The following summarizes the reconstruction of the Secret Society women's operation against the suspect and his website and the associated International Court of Justice trial from 1 January to 28 February, 2017.

The names of persons follow the convention established in the previous chapters. The Secret Society women consist of (as of January, 2017): Karin (the German Lady, K), Angelica (Angelina, G), Kiersten (J), SDW (Maura, M), and Dr P (Petterson). For brevity's sake, the “Secret Society women” shall continue to be referred to simply as the “SS women” in the following narrative.

In the previous episodes we have seen the Secret Society women acquiring all of the suspect's former characteristics: they have become “terrorists” and the US Establishment has sent them to conspire with Russia in order to convict Russia of conspiring with terrorists (September 2016) just as Homeland Security CO chief had once sent the suspect to conspire with Russia (November 2015). Meanwhile, Donald Trump has wanted to save Russia (November 2016), but is instead being dragged down the water by the Russians. In this episode, the Trump team would seek a way out.

ERRATA

(1) The Russians have continuously wanted the suspect “dead” – as he will continually complain in the upcoming months – because they have lost immunity from charges of conspiracy with him a long time ago when he realized they had acquired such immunity. This is not a problem as long as they accept CIA's profile of the suspect to be true. But if they want to gain anything from this ICJ trial, they will have to maintain the SS women's profile of the suspect to be correct, in which case they will have to avoid conspiracy with the suspect. Thus they will always have to try to destroy the suspect.

(2) The Russians only have command over Homeland Security CO chief as long as they can maintain the SS women's profile of the suspect to be correct. This is another reason why they never give up sponsoring the SS women's activities: they want to use Homeland Security CO chief to do mischief in the US and world-wide. This means that Homeland Security CO chief was freed (although convicted) in August 2016, and was on and off under Russian command after September 2016. (He was freed, although convicted, in December 2016, freed again in late January 2017, and so on.) It's not clear what the Russians could have commanded him to do in 2016 to elect Donald Trump.

(3) For all this time CIA's argument has always been that the suspect is not really a terrorist but only somebody who uses his fake terrorist status to harm the US or at least to help the Russians. Thus, CIA's plan has always been: to win the case against the Russians and then ignore him. It's only very strange that, somehow, the fact – which both parties know well – that the suspect doesn't really have (at least complete) free-will never seems to factor into any consideration of whether his intentions and feelings should matter at all in the debate over any party's conspiracy with him. Homeland Security CO chief must have done something in November 2013 (when he took hold of the control center) to enable the fact that he never had much free will to be forever excluded from any legal consideration under international laws. It is he who seems to have secretly “reactivated the previous ICJ trial” (with its sustainable civilization program) without telling anyone about it solely because he saw in it the advantage of controlling the suspect to fit the SS women's profile of him in order to win his dispute with the CIA.

One must reconsider the exact relationship between the current ICJ trial and the previous ICJ trial – i.e. what is meant when Homeland Security CO chief seems to have “reactivated” the previous ICJ trial. There are two possibilities, one optimistic, the other pessimistic.

First, the optimistic scenario. At the end of the previous ICJ trial, in October 2010, when the French had destroyed the evidentiary record, both the French and the Russians departed and the trial was dismissed. The “British Old Lady” (BOL) was upset that the dispute between the French and the Russians had deprived her of her sustainable civilization program. She was the one who wanted to “reactivate” the trial. The Invisible Hand agreed to help her in order to compensate her for CIA's deception of her. It's not clear whether she would have to get Putin's approval. If not, she could do it all by herself because she had declared this whole trial (the dismissal of the trial) a terrorist conspiracy against her – that, although she had attached this perfect program to save the world to this ICJ trial, when nation-states debated and didn't get what they wanted, they would bust up the whole thing, including her program, without any interest in her attempt to save human civilization. (She could have, presumably, issued this order to herself on the basis of Cheney's deception of her, making her, or the Court itself, the victim of the Boss' terrorist conspiracy.) Specifically, when the Russians departed, they left the control center on automatic mode in signaling the suspect so that he would forever persist in the erroneous belief that the trial was continuing when it was all over and thus look delusional for life – the Russians did this because they needed to forever assert in international domain that the Monkey's false profile of him was true and that the mind-reading computer had never been tampered with. BOL had also declared this (the requirement for the suspect to look delusional for life when he isn't really delusional at all) to be part of the conspiracy against her because the suspect, given his Thermodynamic Interpretation of History and his particularly rare type of brain, was supposed to play a key role in her sustainable civilization program. Thus, at the dismissal of the previous ICJ trial, she issued a judgment declaring the control center to be a “dangerous” invention and ordering that a filter “justice” be secretly installed on the computer there. The “filter” (this trojan horse inside the computer) was such that, if anyone goes inside the control center and uses the computer there to program the suspect to become violent and look delusional, it shall be a terrorist conspiracy against BOL, so that the suspect's looking delusional and so on shall engender a course of events culminating in his delusions' becoming true and the sustainable civilization program's becoming implemented. It is thus that the “reactivation of the previous ICJ trial” (real or imaginary) will entirely depend on the “filter”.

As we have seen, the Monkey was the first person to have gone inside the control center to use it to program the suspect to become violent and delusional (from June 2012 onward). When the Russians and the CIA went inside the control center on 1 November, 2013, Mr Homeland Security CO chief followed in and obtained monopoly over it. He proceeded to use it to program the suspect to become violent and delusional. Eventually he defeated himself just as the Monkey did. When the Russians went inside the control center again on 14 February, 2016, they saw what was going on with the suspect. Although the suspect seemed to be wrong about the replacement of evidences from the previous ICJ trial – they knew he was wrong because they had seen how the evidences therefrom were completely destroyed back in October 2010 – he was apparently correct about the “filter”. Whoever uses the computer inside there to do harm will eventually be punished and the victim compensated. This is why, ever since Homeland Security CO chief was convicted on 13 February, the suspect no longer experienced (at least serious) mind-control torture. The Russians did not want to end up being punished. They continued to control the suspect to do things to their benefit but refrained from torturing him because, when the control was painless, they would presumably not be punished in the end.

Now the mysterious question is: why is it that, given all the coincidences, i.e. the similarities between the current ICJ trial and the previous ICJ trial and the strange requirement that the events in the recordings which the suspect is reviewing at the moment always resemble what he is experiencing in the real world at the moment – why is it that, given such obviousness, nobody on the Russian side or in the US Establishment seems to believe that this current ICJ trial is replacing evidences from the previous ICJ trial. This is because government officials can actually see what is going on inside the computer in the control center. They see that, whenever somebody is using the computer to control the suspect to look insane, the “filter” will control him to generate a course of events (by making him act in such a way as to provoke specific reactions from everybody around him) that will look like a new ICJ trial to replace the original ICJ trial – in order for him to continue to misinterpret things in the same way and look insane. This is because, as everyone in governments knows, the suspect is not really insane but merely looks insane due to the fact that he keeps on speculating on the previous ICJ trial and speculating wrongly. Since he doesn't really speculate on other things, the only possible way for him to look insane is to make him misinterpret current happening in terms of the previous ICJ trial. Thus nobody wonders why the current course of events looks so similar to the previous ICJ trial: as long as somebody is using the computer to make the suspect look insane, everything will look as if the replacement of evidences from the previous ICJ trial is indeed in progress. Nobody in the US government thus really cares about any replacement of evidences. In reality, however, something like the replacement of evidence is in progress. Insofar as BOL depends on people's abusing the suspect from the control center to implement her sustainable civilization program, she would either have to replace evidences from the previous ICJ trial (when this is still possible) or to create a second case that looks like the previous ICJ trial (when the evidences from the previous trial were so destroyed that this is no longer possible). Since she wants her sustainable civilization program to be implemented in complete secrecy in order to avoid nations' resistance and sabotage – since, obviously, no governments would want any of this “sustainable civilization” or “program to make people smarter” – people must not suspect that the current course of events has anything to do with the previous ICJ trial (either to replace evidences or to create a second case) and will lead to the implementation of her sustainable civilization program. They must believe that the current course of events looks similar to the previous ICJ trial only because this is the only way to make the suspect look delusional. In other words, the Macrospherians – BOL and her helpers – are using the suspect's delusions to deceive government officials from all sides into the impression that the previous ICJ trial isn't being reactivated and that the similarity between the current course of events and the previous course is entirely due to Homeland Security CO chief's (and the Russians') attempt to make the suspect look insane. Eventually, however, the US officials would realize that they have been deceived, and their primary objective would become to get the Russians and Homeland Security CO chief out of the control center or decouple the suspect from the computer inside – because what is really important is the fact that somebody is using the computer in the control center to remotely control the suspect to look like he's delusional. It is in the interest of US Establishment to forbid anyone from going inside the control center to make the suspect look insane – and yet they can't do this – nor can they get hold of the suspect to remove the chips inside his brain – because there is always some ICJ dispute in progress and people can only go in and out of there, or touch the suspect, according to an ICJ judgment. Thus the problem is (1) that Homeland Security CO chief didn't know anything about the previous ICJ trial or BOL's program and, even if he was told about it, couldn't really understand it in any case and (2) that he has obtained an ICJ judgment regulating the use of the control center back in November 2013, initially to his benefit. Once he has, in November 2013, obtained an ICJ judgment giving him the permission to monopolize the control center and control the suspect, it's inevitable that, one day, BOL will get her sustainable civilization program.

The basis of the current happening is therefore: people's making the suspect look delusional is a terrorist conspiracy against BOL; BOL therefore has the right, under UN Resolution 1373, to reverse the conspiracy by utilizing the suspect's delusions for her benefits. The suspect's delusions shall come true and result in her sustainable civilization program.

If this scenario is correct, the US Establishment can only take comfort in the fact that the suspect's "delusion" about BOL's sustainable civilization program never specifies that the United States should be annihilated or sink to the status of a third world country – because the suspect is knowledgeable enough to know that this will only sow chaos in the world and that the United States is currently still the world-center of cultural diffusion (hence the most suitable candidate for the spread of a new culture).

If this scenario is correct, another reason why the suspect must look insane is that, after Homeland Security CO chief gets convicted, it will furnish the Russians with ammunition to harm the US, and the US will then be forced to defend itself by proving that he is not insane. In order for justice to be restored and the sustainable civilization program to work, the suspect must have some authority. And yet, because people are too dumb, they cannot be expected to realize that he is in fact not insane. The only way for people to believe he is not insane but is a genius is for the government to tell them so. Again, ordinary people will never know that Einstein is not insane but is a genius unless they are told by the authority or read about it in textbooks.

As for the pessimistic scenario: the computer inside the control center, upon being instructed first by the Monkey and then by Homeland Security CO chief to make the suspect look insane, has all this time faked this course of events that looks like the replacement of evidences or the creation of a second case, yet without any actual relationship to the previous ICJ trial. The course of events, such as the third ICJ trial, looks like the previous ICJ trial because, once again, this is the only possible way for the suspect to look insane. Furthermore, when Homeland Security CO chief went inside the control center, he had obtained an ICJ judgment declaring the suspect to be a terrorist and, according to this declaration, the events around the suspect had to be orchestrated to fit his belief in order to enable him to finish his mission. With this scenario, the final product of this course of event could be anything – indeterminate – or could even be the prohibition of this "sustainable civilization program" under international laws, while, in the optimistic scenario, it will be the implementation of the same "sustainable civilization program". In any case, within this pessimistic scenario, the BOL has no role in the current affairs and there is no replacement of evidences or creation of a second case. All is illusory.

KEY EPISODES

- 1 January, the SS women continue their effort to “revive” the ICJ trial.
- 3 January, the SS women appeal to Microsoft.
- 6 January, the US establishment begins plan to remove Trump: joint FBI-DHS report.
- 9 January, TSA's security alert about the suspect saves the Russian side from conviction. The ICJ trial resumed. The SS women begin complaining to the TSA and the CIA begins working with the TSA.
- 10 January, the Missionary Sisters begin working for Homeland Security/ the Russians.
- 11 January, the US Establishment's smear campaign against Trump continues (Steele's report about Trump's sex acts in a Moscow hotel).
- 13 January, the Trump team joins the complaint process with the TSA (message on Trump Jr's Facebook).
- 17 January, the suspect apologizes on Trump Jr's Facebook. Bluehost stops archiving his logs.
- 18 January, Elliot shows the suspect an antisemitic video. Is he recruited by the Russian side?
- 21 January, Trump is at CIA headquarter. The SS women appeal to Microsoft. The Russian side is being convicted in the ICJ. The Trump team withdraws from the ICJ trial and affirms CIA's profile of the suspect to be correct.
- 24 January, the ICJ issues its judgment convicting Russia and its allies.
- 25 January, the suspect's confession causes the temporary suspension of yesterday's judgment. “Penelope Gate” breaks out in France: Russians' mischief via Homeland Security CO chief?
- 27 January, the SS women are telling Dorit about the suspect at night.
- 9 February, has the TSA rejected the SS women's “expert testimonies”?
- 11 February, morning, the Russians use a Homeland Security homeless man to attack the suspect. Night, the SS women (Dr P) offer expert testimonies for TSA.
- 13 February, the suspect has arrived in Chicago.
- 15 February, the suspect has returned to Los Angeles. The TSA removes him from watchlist. The Russian side is convicted in the ICJ.
- 17 February, the Russian side enters new evidence (the suspect is a danger to others after all): the ICJ judgment convicting Russia and its allies is temporarily suspended.
- 20 February, the US Establishment returns to the favor with leaks that Marine's assistant has also been engaged in money fraud.
- 25 February, the Russians have exhausted their means. About to be convicted.
- 26 February, the SS women complain to Microsoft.
- 27 February, the Russian side is convicted again in ICJ. Past midnight, the SS women are talking to TSA trying to persuade them to reconsider their conclusion.

January, 2017

Now the course of events in January, 2017. On 1 January, the SS women discover the new document “Prelude E-4E”, then continue to brainstorm the whole day, but are somehow busy that night, between 6 PM and 12 AM. One more visit to Kristin's portrait. On 2 January, Open Link Profiler indexing – again, the SS women have programed OLP to index the suspect's website every 10 days or so. Then, between 5 PM and 10 PM, they are again busy. It would appear that, for two nights consecutively, they are meeting in person to discuss the difficult situation: how to produce a right piece of evidence to (in their mind) “revive” the ICJ trial. On the morning of 3 January, the Lincoln Center volunteer shows up again to brainstorm for the SS women. 1 PM, they complain to Microsoft again (Drake Holding: “enlightenment 1998 scalar”), hoping that the slightest action taken by Microsoft could become the evidence needed to revive the ICJ trial. But Microsoft has evidently refused to be persuaded again. On 4 January, the SS women continue to brainstorm for solution. On 5 January, 5:35 PM, the SS women order Site Explorer to index three recordings from 12 and 13 April, 2009. They apparently want to persuade the Secret Service to invalidate their own investigation results on the ground that they have failed to respect the women victims' “confidentiality”. They are then pretty busy that night again. It must be because the Secret Service has ignored their appeal that they are conferencing again for solutions. On 6 January, they continue to brainstorm. Note that, 5 PM, the suspect is meeting with the Missionary Sisters in the Visitors' Center. Meanwhile, the SS women are again busy after 9 PM – probably meeting in person to discuss the emergency (i.e. the Russian side is losing the ICJ trial). From today onward, the US Establishment, as CIA's victory in the ICJ is almost certain, begins to implement its plan to remove Trump: since Russians' command of Homeland Security CO chief to elect Trump is now part of their terrorist conspiracy with the SS women, the Trump presidency no longer has legitimacy under international laws. Today, the US Establishment publishes online the FBI-DHS Joint Analysis Report saying the Russians have, last year, launched a clandestine campaign to influence the US election (including hacking the DNC) in order to install Trump in the White House. The purpose is to establish the context in which Trump can be eventually removed through the impeachment mechanism as if none of it had anything to do with some secret trial in the International Court of Justice. On the morning of 7 January, in order to temporarily save themselves from total defeat, the Russians command Homeland Security CO chief to order a Quantil Group member to search for the suspect's “Suffering Woman” with the search terms “notice, American sexism video”. Then, the SS women continue to brainstorm and produce evidences. They seem to be busy conferencing again between 12 PM and 6 PM (only two visits to the suspect's website). From today onward, however, their – and Russians' – luck begins to turn. The suspect is preparing for his trip to Chicago next month and, this time, he has decided to fly. Early evening, he tries to order an airline ticket on priceline.com but is somehow unable to. The website freezes: is this an accident? Apparently, although the CIA has removed the suspect from Terrorist Identities Datatmart Environment, he remains on some of TSA's watchlists. It might be that he has never been removed from these watchlists since 2007: i.e. when Mr Chertoff first ordered that he be placed on these watchlists as a dangerous paranoid schizophrenic frequently obsessed with government officials like Mr Chertoff himself. If the suspect should have succeeded in purchasing a ticket, he would, thereby, trigger some sort of alert system, which the Russian side would order Homeland Security CO chief to enter into the ICJ as evidence confirming that the SS women's profile of him might be correct after all. It's therefore possible that the CIA has blocked the suspect's activities on priceline.com. But this could only be a temporary measure.

On the morning of 8 January, the suspect attends Sunday service at the Mormon church for the first time. As for the SS women, they continue to brainstorm (plagiarism). 3 PM, a volunteer from Morocco produces more evidences of the suspect's plagiarism. After midnight, the suspect, unaware of the significance of his action, tries again and finally succeeds in purchasing a ticket on Spirit Airline's website. On the morning of 9 January, evidence has finally entered the ICJ to save the Russian side from complete conviction: TSA's security alert has confirmed that the SS women's claim that the suspect is a paranoid schizophrenic might be correct after all. The CIA, already expecting this, is ready for another round of fighting. The SS women must have got signs of the new development. 6 AM, the Long Keng volunteer shows up on the suspect's website. (Did the SS women mistake “saving” for “winning” so that they ask the Long Keng volunteer to check whether law enforcement has been required by an ICJ judgment to remove the suspect's website?) Then, the SS women's volunteers continue to work on producing evidences of the suspect's plagiarism. And also of his “impersonation” on PP. As for the suspect, it's a big day for him in that, on 2:20 PM, he gets to speak to Wes. Here are details of the conversation:

Conversation with Wes (09/01/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 39:00. (1) His wrong scenario: the SS women have found another agency to complain to. (No, it's the same Secret Service.) (2) His new theory about Trump: Cheney and Gingrich were carrying out the previous ICJ judgment by bringing Trump to power. Meanwhile, the rest of US Establishment are free to resist the judgment. Again, the suspect is wrong. (3) The anti-Russia propaganda (Russia's meddling in US election) has made the suspect angry because it misleads everyone into an alternate reality. (4) The suspect is almost done with Honneth's book on recognition. A summary of Honneth's ideas. His problem: he didn't get recognized for his ICJ business. This however doesn't fit in anywhere in Honneth's framework. About the debate between Nancy Fraser and Axel Honneth. Recognition, money, and power. About creating a movement in order to make life meaningful: thus recognition, money, power, meaning, group identity... If somebody recognizes you but you don't recognize his recognition, then it wouldn't matter. (5) The Mormon church. Their European headquarter in Frankfurt. (6) The SS women's business must end. Kiersten has tried so hard to harm the suspect and yet he has never done anything to her. Should he seek vengeance? Wes: “Be careful. It might be a trap.” Should he wait? Somehow the Russians don't want to kick Angelica's butt. There are more than 10,000 law enforcement agencies in this country.

The SS women, especially Dr P, might be analyzing the intercept of the suspect's conversation together with Homeland Security CO chief between 4 and 7 PM. (No visits to his website during this time.) They would use his speculations about Cheney and Gingrich as evidence to confirm their profile of him as insane, and then his statement about vengeance as evidence to confirm that he is physically dangerous to them. We have to imagine this: once Homeland Security CO chief has submitted to the ICJ TSA's security alert about the suspect, he would go back to the TSA officers in charge of threat-assessment to show them his warning about the suspect as an anti-American terrorist and ask them to contact the SS women on the ground that they are “experts” on this terrorist's criminal conducts and psychopathology. TSA's threat-assessment organ in question should be the Behavior Detection and Analysis Program run by TSA's behavior detection officers (BDOs).¹ Dr P would then be on the phone with a certain TSA BDO saying, “I'm a licensed psychologist, I know all about this extremely dangerous misogynist and schizophrenic terrorist.... He used to be my patient...” and giving him the bullshit about his stalking, harassment, violation of people's privacy, racism, misogyny, antisemitism, paranoid schizophrenia, plagiarism, intellectual property theft, computer-hacking, and impersonation. Between 4 and 7 PM, all the SS women are probably busy talking to the TSA BDO and submitting to him their analysis of the suspect's conversation with his best-friend. Afterwards, however, the CIA's Invisible Hand would approach the TSA BDOs and provide them with the warning about this group of “women terrorists” (fraudsters and false complainers of terrorism) and begin teaching them how to see through these women's deception and properly profile the suspect. Since these “behavior detection specialists” in the TSA are, as expected, complete idiots when it comes to human psychology, the Invisible Hand can only succeed in teaching them anything by invoking the sheer authority of the Agency and Pentagon's reminder that these women and their Homeland Security partner are working for the enemies and a threat to US national security. Meanwhile, 10 PM, the suspect follows a Syrian parliamentarian on Facebook. It's not clear whether this has any effect on the ICJ trial. Fewer activities from the SS women on the suspect's website tonight probably because they have been busy for the whole day with the TSA. Note that, since the SS women are unaware that the CIA is accusing the Russian side of conspiring with them as terrorists, they are assuming that, with the new development, the ICJ trial is “revived”.

1 The TSA provides an official description of its Behavior Detection and Analysis Program on its website in the form of its administrator John S. Pistole's statement to House Committee on Homeland Security on 14 November, 2013: <https://www.tsa.gov/news/testimony/2013/11/14/tsa-behavior-detection-and-analysis-program>. The Congressional Research Service's report, “Transportation Security: Issues for the 114th Congress” (Bart Elias et al), also includes descriptions of TSA's “behavior detection officers” and its Screening Passengers by Observation Techniques (SPOT). At: <https://fas.org/sgp/crs/homsec/RL33512.pdf>.

On 10 January, now that the Russian side has restarted the ICJ trial again, they quickly launch an aggressive campaign to produce evidences to prove that the SS women's testimonies about the suspect are correct. The most important task is, as always, to prove that the suspect is a plagiarizer. All morning, the SS women and their volunteers focus on saxonwarrior.jpg and the chapter from which it comes, germaninvasion.html, as the most definitive evidences to submit to prove that the suspect is a plagiarizer. Then, 1 PM, they submit an index of the suspect's website (both the index page and 1.html: the “Poney indexing”). Later in the day, they also submit other chapters as evidences of the suspect's plagiarism. Meanwhile, since yesterday, the Russian side has commanded Homeland Security CO chief to recruit the Missionary Sisters to run operation on the suspect. The Missionary Sisters do not know that they are working for the Russians, but believe they are doing legitimate work for the US government. According to plan, they come to meet the suspect in Elysee on 7 PM and, in accordance with the instruction given them, ask him to read from his German book (Honneth's Kampf um Anerkennung) but forbid him from explaining what he has read. This is evidence in the ICJ in support of the SS women's claim that the suspect merely quotes from foreign language books without however understanding what it all means in order to pretend to be educated. (Namely, Kiersten's characteristic.) On 11 January, since morning, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to submit false reports about the suspect's website to the TSA. Perhaps one report about his harassment of, and delusion about, Trump (about his intention to harm him). Then a report about his misogynist and racist speech along with plagiarism (“PC Books”). Also about his delusions about his women victims (PP). Meanwhile, the suspect, in the afternoon, has discovered the slandering fake news about Trump on BuzzFeed (that the Russians have recorded his sex acts in a Moscow hotel and are ready to blackmail him) and posts an angry (pro-Trump) comment about it on his Facebook. This is US Establishment's second move in their plan to build up a context in which to eventually remove Trump. Trump himself holds today his famous press conference. The whole Trump campaign must have been quite worried until 9 January, when they were relieved to learn that TSA's alert has become evidence in the ICJ to save them and the Russians. Strangely, after midnight, the SS women decide to submit another (Poney) index of the suspect's website (both the index page and 1.html). This, while the regular (every 10-day) Open Link Profiler indexing is in progress.

On 12 January, news outlets begin to report the source of yesterday's fake news about Trump: a former MI6 operative named “Christopher Steele”.² The suspect spends the

2 Within days Russia Today would report on the process whereby Steele would have come up with his revelation: that some Republican paid him to dig dirt on Trump more than a year ago, followed by some Democrats who did so, and that the “dirt” Steele was paid to come up with was precisely this “sex acts in Ritz-Carlton Moscow” and “Russian willingness to blackmail”. Vanity Fair then published in April 2017 a longer account of the process: Howard Blum, “The Kremlin Connection”. The men involved were Glenn Simpson and Christopher Steele, and the firms hired to come up with the fake news are Fusion GPS and Orbis. Steele used to be the head of MI6's Russia Station, and he was hired by Simpson (Fusion), who was first paid by a “Never Trump” Republican in September 2015 to dig up dirt about whole day today finishing up “Prelude-F-5C” and would, by midnight, upload it to his website – together with a pro-Trump commentary on the end denouncing the propaganda against Trump. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to make false reports about the suspect's website to the TSA BDOs. It seems that the “Vancouver Expert” has shown up again in the morning. Then, also reports on “My experience...” and “PC Books”. Throughout the morning of 13 January, the SS women continue to mobilize volunteers from universities to report on the suspect's supposed plagiarism. More reports on “PC Books”. As the Russians try aggressively to produce evidences verifying the SS women's false profile of the suspect, they come up with a new trick this afternoon. 4:30 PM, when the suspect is waiting for the bus outside Santa Monica Library, they command Homeland Security to send in a white guy to threaten to beat him for smoking near the bus stop. He is trying to provoke the suspect into a fight – hopefully to cause the suspect to get arrested, since he is still on probation – so that the SS women's claim that he is physically dangerous to other people might be supported by evidence. The suspect however simply ignores the provocation. He then meets with the Missionary Sisters and Bishop John at the Visitors' Center – precisely to talk about the need to quit smoking in order to become a member of the Mormon church. Bishop John does not seem to be aware of the Homeland Security business. Meanwhile, 5:30 PM, the SS women order another round of Poney indexing to submit to the TSA. More reports about the suspect's harassment of famous women like Kristin and Shizuka. 10:27 PM, the suspect, acting on his anger over all this propaganda against Trump (!), posts a message on Trump Jr's Facebook advising his father to create his own intelligence agency to deal with US Establishment's slander! He has yet to appreciate the fact that Trump is his deadliest enemy. 12 AM, Kiersten changes her Facebook profile picture – indicating that something good (from the SS women's perspective) has happened – and there are no more visits to the suspect's website. Clearly, there has occurred tonight a second breakthrough after the Russian side has saved themselves in the ICJ on 9 January. The Trump team is submitting the suspect's 10:27 PM post on Trump Jr's Facebook to the TSA BDOs as evidence of his intent to harm them (since he has expressed goodwill in his message) and has once again called up the SS women to obtain their expert testimonies and psychoanalysis about the suspect. Hence the SS women, and Kiersten in particular, are

Trump, and later, in April 2016, by Democratic donors. Steele came up with the “sex acts/ blackmail” story for Simpson by late June, 2016. He then attempted to leak it. First to Mother Jones in October 2016. The report then became well-known in Washington DC after Trump's election. Former State Department official David Kramer (working with John McCain on the issue) then went to London to fetch the report from Steele. McCain then discussed the report with the FBI on 9 December 2016. The Russians appear to have confirmed the veracity of the report when, soon after the news broke open, former FSB general Oleg Erovinkin was found dead in his car and the FSB arrested two officers in the agency's cyber-wing and one computer security expert. More than six months after Vanity Fair's report, on 24 October 2017, Washington Post regurgitated the same story in Entous, Barrett, and Helderman, “Clinton campaign, DNC paid for research that led to Russia dossier.” The Post report however specifies that the Democrats who paid Fusion GPS in April 2016 were precisely the Clinton campaign and the DNC. The chain: Marc E. Elias, a lawyer representing the Clinton campaign and the DNC, and his law firm, Perkins Coie, retained, in April 2016, Fusion GPS, which then hired Christopher Steele. The Clinton campaign and the DNC continued to fund the Fusion research until the end of October 2016.

jubilant, and Dr P, the principal professional opinion on the sickness which the suspect suffers from and the tremendous danger he poses to others, is also busy and excited all night. SDW would also post a new post on her blog tonight – her first time since 21 December: “the Church Committee.” It's nothing of importance. Evidently both Kiersten and SDW are posting new materials on their social media platforms hoping to enable law enforcement officers to intercept the suspect “cyberstalking” them (when he checks their sites).

On 14 January, after the excitement last night, the SS women resume operation only after 9:30 AM. Far fewer visits to the suspect's website today, which is indication of how busy the SS women are with the Trump campaign and the TSA officers. In the afternoon, MSSGDP. This is just the evidence which the Russian side has wanted. It will again prolong their life for a brief moment. Then, at night, there is a visit to “Cheney Plan” from Freie Universität Berlin (!). (Has this volunteer anything to do with Wes' friend Daniel?) Then, another report on “My experience...” from Vieux-Saint Laurent, Quebec. (Quite close to Montreal.) Presumably, the SS women have got Angelo's friend to report on the suspect's delusion about him.

On the morning of 15 January (Sunday), the suspect would upload the revised version of F-5C to his website – he has added his realization that the ICJ trial was dismissed back in April last year. As for the SS women, they mobilize more volunteers to file false reports about the suspect's Facebook and plagiarism. 7 PM, when the suspect is at Elysee, he would have a long chat with Daniel.³ Since the CIA is now working with the TSA BDOs to train them as to how to see through the SS women's lies and how to properly profile the suspect, the Invisible Hand would here demonstrate to the TSA that the suspect is in fact quite educated and intelligent, unlike the SS women's portrayal of him. This would then become evidence in the ICJ to debunk the Russians' case. Midnight, a Partisan files another report on the “Marine essay” to the TSA BDOs to confirm the SS women's story about the suspect.

On 16 January, Ukraine formally opens a case against Russia in the ICJ charging that Russia has been supporting “terrorists” in eastern Ukraine in violation of international agreement. We have to wonder whether Ukraine has already made this decision in late December, when it saw that Russia was losing in the current dispute about the SS women and the suspect. Ukraine probably wanted to ride on the tide when Russia was about to be convicted of conspiring with terrorists to harm the United States. Although Russia has now temporarily saved itself, Ukraine has decided not to back off from its plan. Everyone is probably confident that the CIA will in the course of time prove in the ICJ that the SS women are a bunch of false complainers of terrorism. The Russians, realizing this, are probably just buying time right now. After they have read through the suspect's "F-5C" – seeing that the suspect, given time, will be able to reconstruct everything that has happened – they have decided on a new strategy: to wait for the suspect to reconstruct the CIA's counter-suing them last September. Once that happens, they need merely get the SS women to read it in order for them to understand what they can't tell them – that the US is using them as patsies against the Russian side. Conspiracy will then be established to save the Russian side. As for the SS women, they continue today to mobilize their volunteers to report on the suspect's violation of intellectual property laws. One visit to "Cheney Plan" in the morning (Birmingham, UK). Another report on "My experience...." (Regina, Canada) around 2:30 PM. Probably still related to Angelo. 3 AM, the SS women compile another index of recordings and videos from 12 and 13 April, 2009 (SiteExplorer). This is to remind the TSA BDOs that the suspect has violated many people's privacy on his website and that the TSA BDOs should therefore take care to never look at this website for themselves.

3 Recorded in: “elyseedaniel_1_15_17_7PM.MP3”. The suspect is mostly asking Daniel which philosopher he has read and which he has not.

On the morning of 17 January, the suspect has become quite nervous about the Trump team (about his 13 January message on Trump Jr's Facebook). Around noon, when he is at Asian Pacific, he uses the public computer there to log onto his Facebook account and post a short message on Trump Jr's Facebook apologizing for supporting his father and begging him "not to help these women ban his website". However, because he isn't using his own computer, Facebook actually alerts him via email that his Facebook account has been logged into at a different location. It's expected that the Russian side will use this as evidence to establish in the ICJ that the SS women's claim that the suspect likes to impersonate and is not really who he claims he is might be true after all. 7 PM, the suspect is at the Mormon church attending the addiction group for the first time. As for the SS women, they continue to mobilize their volunteers throughout the whole day (plagiarism). After midnight, they order a MegaIndex indexing. Strangely, from tonight onward, Bluehost will no longer archive the suspect's visitors' log. It's very likely that this is related to the current debate in the ICJ; but how? Somehow the suspect's account setting has been tampered with.

On 18 January, the suspect talks to Wes on the phone on 2:37 PM – his weekly "session" with his best-friend. Note that Wes is dissuading the suspect from reconstructing probably because the CIA is worried that the suspect will soon realize that they have been counter-suing Russia in the past few months, which will save the Russian side from conviction. In general, however, the suspect's speech is evidence in favor of the CIA – it is proof that he is not insane – but he could soon ruin it all for the US Establishment. As for the SS women, they continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism throughout the whole day. Note that, 6:12 PM, the SS women's volunteer looks up "The birth of a mission, C". Is this done on Russians' request to discount CIA's counter-evidence about the suspect's so-called "intent to harm"? Then, 8 PM, a visit from Iran to “Cheney Plan”. When the suspect returns to Elysee, his long chat with Daniel⁴ would again become evidence in favor of the CIA (proof that the SS women's profile of him as uneducated and a charlatan is false). However, Elliot then shows the suspect an antisemitic video. Although Elliot is an “Alt-Right”, this is highly suspicious. It's very possible that the Russians have commanded Homeland Security to recruit Elliot as well out of desperation. It's then an operation: “Show him this antisemitic video” so that Homeland Security's faulty surveillance can confuse the suspect with Elliot thus producing evidence confirming Kiersten's false claim that he has a love-hate attitude toward the Jewish people (which is really one of Kiersten's own characteristics).

Conversation with Wes (18/01/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 3:49:00. (1) The ICJ trial was dismissed in early April. Following that was the Russian side's attempt to revive the trial. The SS women couldn't use the Homeland Security warning back in April. Wes: “You said something about a key?” The debate was still going on when the suspect went to New York. It was the Secret Service, not Joint Terrorism Task Force. (2) The SS women's breakthrough last Friday. His message on Trump Jr's Facebook. The SS women are waiting for Trump to get in office: Trump will help them. Will his website be banned after 20 January? The suspect is coming closer to the truth. He shouldn't be pro-Russia and pro-Trump: they all want him dead. It is the US Establishment which is protecting his website. (3) The immense forces which have gathered to ban his website. Why can't the Russians think of something else? The SS women's profile of him can too easily be disproved. (4) In November last year, the Baltimore Lawyer was “turned” by the Homeland Security warning. (5) Angelica has spent approximately 11,400 hours going after his website. The SS women are doing something very meaningful: to bring the National Front to power, namely, to save the world according to the suspect's own theory. (6) Will the Secret Service and so on recruit the Mormon Sisters as informants? (He didn't yet know that the Russians have already recruited them.) (7) Wes tries to dissuade the suspect from reconstructing. (8) As for the suspect's misfortunes today, it all goes back to Monkey's deed in April 2010: ever since the Russians are required to want him dead. (8) Germany is an exciting place because the politics there is more diverse. But the suspect cannot keep joining causes that want him dead. The Mormon church is good, but Mormonism is no cause. The salvation of the soul is not a cause. (9) About the suspect's Guinness World Record. The SS women's “false complaint industry.” (10) Wes' money. (11) Next month, the suspect will have to find a home, so that he could go to church. Church is a different world. (12) Why is America a paradise for everyone else but North Korea for him? The disposal of extra male labor power in prison. (13) Trump's true agenda (5:09:00).

4 The recording of the conversation is: elyseeelliotdaniel_1_18_17_524PM.MP3 (from 1:11:00 onward). Postmodernism and contemporary politics. About Badiou. Revolution can be seen as an attempt to represent a certain configuration of reality. The first round is over by 1:58:00.

On 19 January, the SS women spend the whole day working on proving that the suspect is a plagiarizer. On 20 January, a Friday, Trump is inaugurated. Something strange: Dr P is out of town this weekend. Where did she go? Did she go to Washington DC? To join the women's march in the capitol while secretly meeting with Trump's team to psychoanalyze the suspect for them? Very likely: this would be her first, and probably only, face-to-face meeting with Trump's team. Of course she would present herself as an expert on this bad-to-the-bone and extremely dangerous schizophrenic misogynist terrorist: "I'm a licensed psychologist... I understand him, he used to be my patient..." As if she were not dealing with a nuisance who broke some windows and posts messages on the Internet but with a serial killer. Never before has her life been so meaningful: becoming the one and only expert on a supremely dangerous misogynist terrorist. It never occurs to her that she is jumping up and down getting excited over nothing in particular. The Trump team members, however, must have by now regretted being involved with these women. Meanwhile, the rest of the SS women back in Los Angeles continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism to the TSA team. 5:25 PM or so, MSSGDP. The suspect then attends his lesson with the Missionary Sisters at the Visitors' Center. Note that, 10:38 PM, the suspect posts a message on AVFM forum to present a more correct version of what has happened between the SS women and the Trump campaign throughout last year. Specifically, he wants to make it known that it's the Secret Service, not the Joint Terrorism Task Force, which has been receiving these women's complaints about him. Again, the Russian side would look upon this as a favorable sign – even though, for the time being, it's CIA's evidence that the suspect is not insane: the suspect will eventually realize what is going on right now. They merely have to buy time. And, at this point, they are probably comforting the Trump team in the same way: "Just wait. Don't worry!"

On 21 January, Donald Trump is at the CIA headquarter. One has to wonder whether the clandestine service officers (including the Invisible Hand) are meeting with Trump at the headquarter to discuss the situation with the suspect and the SS women. It would be an extremely antagonistic meeting: both the Secret Service's and TSA's investigation have concluded that the CIA and the TMU are correct about the suspect and these women that are going after him; but of course Trump shows no sign of it when he gives a speech in the headquarter. Meanwhile, today, the SS women continue to work on reporting the suspect for plagiarism. Around 6 PM, they even forge evidence again (sacrifice.html). However, it seems that, by night, they are informed by Homeland Security CO chief that the Russian side is losing in the ICJ. Perhaps they have also been informed by the TSA BDOs that the latter do not consider their testimonies about the suspect to be credible. Even the evidence which Elliot produced on the night of 18 January has been overridden by all the new evidences which indicate that the suspect is not insane (for example, he has increasingly better understanding of the SS women's operations last year) and that these women are a bunch of false complainers. Thus, on 11:30 PM, the women make a complaint about the suspect's essay (HT-contribution) to Microsoft, hoping to produce favorable evidence to help the Russian side stay alive in the ICJ. Upon Microsoft's refusal to take action, they then spend the rest of the night brainstorming: no more visits to the suspect's website.

On the morning of 22 January, due to rain, the suspect has a difficult time at the Mormon church and then is unable to meet with his new German tutor, Dorit. (Yvonne is now on maternity leave.) Kiersten would retweet all day about Women's March that took place yesterday. The SS women continue to work on proving that the suspect is a plagiarizer. They seem to have some focus on the suspect's portrait of Ms Kudo today. This includes an Eircom indexing in the morning starting with "shizuka1988". Perhaps, since the SS women's attempt with Microsoft didn't work out last night, they are relying on Ms Kudo to help them produce a piece of evidence to (in their mind) "revive" the ICJ trial (not knowing that Russia is being convicted right now).

We can safely assume that, today, the Trump team, seeing that the Russians and their allies have just been convicted in the ICJ, has decided to withdraw from the Russian side and now officially affirm that CIA's profile of the suspect is correct. We should also assume that Trump's meeting at the CIA headquarter yesterday has something to do with Trump's decision today.

On 23 January, a Monday, Dr P is back in Los Angeles. Strangely, Kiersten retweets: "Tomorrow's going to be a new day, a better day." Does she believe that the Russian side can still win the ICJ trial? That Dr P's meeting with the Trump team has turned out good? That Trump is going to ban the suspect's website and validate the SS women's victim status now that he is in office? Perhaps the SS women believe that, although the Russian side is again losing in the ICJ, now that Trump is the President, he's going to use his executive power to order the Secret Service and the TSA to validate their complaints. If so, they are absolutely naïve, without understanding how the US government works (that the departments in the executive branch operate largely independently of the President's commands). Meanwhile, this afternoon, the suspect would revise "Summary 2016", adding in a more correct description of the situation between the SS women and the Secret Service late last year. Strangely, 5:30 PM, he runs into the "detective" in Starbucks (Vermont) while uploading the revised version of "Summary 2016" to his website. Usually, this is because the CIA is collecting evidence proving that he is not an anti-American terrorist (contradicting Homeland Security CO chief's profile). This is because, now that Homeland Security CO chief is no longer able to control him to go into a rage, he's certainly not going to shout anti-American profanity at the detective. As for the SS women, they continue to spend the whole day working on proving that the suspect is a plagiarizer. Eircom indexing on 4:10 PM. Then, the Long Keng volunteer shows up on 9:40 PM (Table of Contents). He hasn't been seen for 14 days! Does this mean that the SS women really believe that President Trump has the magic power of ordering law enforcement agencies to remove the suspect's website? Then, 10:30 PM, the suspect can't log into his Bluehost account. He gets on help chat and is told that “server is down”. Is the CIA ordering law enforcement to run another thorough check of the suspect's website?

On the morning of 24 January, Bluehost has finally resumed archiving the suspect's log. Is it because the CIA and law enforcement (TSA) have conducted the final check on the suspect's website yesterday and established conclusively that the SS women's testimonies about it are bogus? This means that yesterday was a big day for the CIA: the revised version of “Summary 2016” is new evidence that the suspect does not suffer paranoid delusion about the SS women's going after him, and the test with the “detective” is evidence that he is not an anti-American terrorist. The Russians and their allies are now in serious trouble. The ICJ judgment convicting them of conspiring with a bunch of false complainers of terrorism to make up a false case of terrorism as a way to fraudulently bring the National Front to power should come down today. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers (plagiarism). Note that, 12:30 PM or so, a volunteer from Brandeis University is studying the suspect's Table of Contents. 3:20 PM, MSSGDP. It's probably the Russians who have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to control the suspect to do this – just one more evidence to keep them afloat for a few day. Note that the SS women seem to have an agenda about “Cheney Plan” today. 12:30 PM, a visit to “Cheney Plan” from Philadelphia. Then, 5:49 PM and 6:21 PM, two visits to “Cheney Plan” from pdfdrive.net.

On 25 January, “Penelope Gate” broke out in France: Fillon is in trouble. Did the Russians command Homeland Security CO chief to run operations to ruin Marine's principal competitor? Since they are losing, this would be their one last desperate attempt to help the National Front. Meanwhile the SS women will continue to mobilize their volunteers to visit and report on images and chapters on suspect's website. 1:15 PM, the SS women compile another index – evidently, given the Russians' defeat yesterday, to remind the TSA team to respect their “victim confidentiality”: the index consists of recordings and videos from March and May 2010, and a video of the CIA agent “Amanda” (May 2009). Then, on 2:20 PM, the suspect is having his weekly session with Wes. Note that the suspect's admission that he is obstructing Russia's cause in action while speaking for Russia's cause in words might become evidence in the ICJ in Russia's favor – that he indeed hates whatever he loves at the same time. The Russians would then presumably interpret in this light the suspect's defense of Russia and Putin in the latter part of the conversation. The Russians might be able to use this new evidence to persuade the ICJ judges to temporarily hold yesterday's judgment in suspense. When Wes, however, asks the suspect to think about how his reconstruction might change the future, the CIA is trying to obtain evidence to prevent him from saving the Russians when he shall reconstruct up to the point where the CIA began counter-suing Russia last September. However, the suspect doesn't get the point but says, “I might not know the future because it has changed, but at least I will know the past.” The CIA is thus as yet unable to obtain an ICJ judgment to preempt the suspect from ruining their case in the future.

Conversation with Wes (25/01/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 3:22:00. (1) He is overwhelmed. (2) Surprisingly, this ICJ trial will not end with a judgment requiring the US to compensate the National Front. (3) The suspect feels empty: the cause he wants to fight for always wants him dead. Yet he needs a cause in order to feel life is meaningful. There are no other causes. Russia is the “mother of all causes”. It would be nice if the suspect can find continuity in his doings. Right now he is obstructing Russia's cause, and yet he speaks for Russia. The SS women are helping Russia, and yet Kiersten is cultivating an anti-Trump and anti-Russia persona on her Twitter page. (4) The current ICJ trial is orchestrated only to replace evidences from the previous ICJ trial. The suspect's harming Russia right now is the evidence to be taken backward in time. (5) Why the suspect wants to fight for a cause: to get both himself recognized and his cause realized. He also likes “negative recognition”. As for Kiersten, whenever she fights for a cause, it is purely to get people to admire her, she has never any interest in the cause itself. But the suspect is not going to fight for a cause that is opposite of his ideal. (6) The suspect is not going to stand there like a piece of wood while everything flies over his head. (7) He gives a summary of Honneth's argument. “I'm also fighting for recognition: to be recognized as equal to everybody else and be given equal access to common knowledge.” (8) The Mormon church. (9) About the anti-Trump protest in the past weekend: “They don't know what they are doing, and yet they don't know that. There is a strong current of hypocrisy running through their struggle, they really just want to rule, things are not as they seem... The oppressed, when they get into power, will turn out to be even worse oppressors...” (10) Maybe his speculation about BOL is correct after all, for, because of this ICJ trial, there has occurred a power shift in the US Establishment, Homeland Security's operational unit is convicted, and CIA is becoming the master in the American domain. (11) Why is Wes anti-Russia now? Why does Wes like Clinton? Why doesn't he like Trump? “I still believe BOL might have wanted Trump to become the president because of the values he represents.”

On 26 January, there are more visits to the suspect's website than usual. The SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers (images and chapters). 8:46 AM, another visit to “Cheney Plan” (Pisa, Italy). The continuation of the focus on this essay since 24 January. Notably, on 2:09 PM, Gaurav visits the suspect's website (abhsia.telus.net, Edmonton):

He is using the same phone as he did on 10 April last year. Obviously, the SS women, desperate over Russia's loss in the ICJ since 24 January, have asked Gaurav today to make a complaint to TSA's team about how the suspect is harassing him by putting his name together with the suspect's on Google's search results. This, in order to help Russia “revive” the ICJ trial. Yet, instead – most bizarre – Gaurav has merely discovered the suspect's logging of his visit the last time when the SS women asked him to do the same thing. Funny! Gaurav must be so angry that he immediately withdraws from the SS women's operation. He would however, in the meantime, pass along the document to the SS women. This is the first time that they discover this new document. It would so anger them while bedazzling the Partisans: how did this guy know about our operations behind his back?

Take special note of the visit to the PP post on 7:48 PM: 24.179.53.43, slid.la.charter.com, Slidell, Louisiana,

Is this the same Slidell volunteer who has played such a prominent role in the SS women's operation last summer? (She was last seen on 12 September.) If so, her iPhone has been updated from 9.3.5⁵ Then, on 12:16 AM, it appears that a Partisan (abo.wanadoo.fr, Neuilly-le-Real) has come to fetch the new document himself which has caused such a stir among the SS women this afternoon:

Then, another visit from Cape Town, South Africa, to karinaftrwr11.pdf on 2 AM.

5 We have to wonder whether this Slidell volunteer might be a certain “Sterling Hill”, CEO of MTHFR Support.

On 27 January, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers (images and chapters: plagiarism). 1:32 PM, a volunteer from Ecuador looks up “Ying and Yang II”. 2:31 PM, Eva's portrait. 4:34 PM, the portrait of Shizuka. Just more attempts to “revive” the ICJ trial. 4:30 PM, the suspect has met up with his new tutor Dorit in a Starbucks in Venice Beach. Strangely, around 7 PM or so, hours after the lesson has ended, Dorit sends the suspect a mysterious text message: “Just got here. Gray top and scarf.” Dorit is evidently meeting with another student on 7 PM, and this text-message is really intended for the second student. Later events would indicate that the Russians, desperate to buy more time, have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to recruit Dorit as an informant against the suspect. The Russians then order (via Mr Homeland Security CO chief) Dorit to pretend to mistake the suspect's phone number for the second student's, so that they may present the monitoring of Dorit's session with the second student as evidence of her session with the suspect. The second student must be a beginner, so that his poor German is now evidence in the ICJ confirming that the suspect doesn't know any German at all. Amazingly, there are no visits from the SS women to the suspect's website between 8:30 PM and 2 AM. It's possible that Homeland Security CO chief has connected them with Dorit so that they can tell her what a dangerous, delusional, and women-hating stalker the suspect is.

On 28 January (a Saturday), some time between 6 PM last night and 6 PM today, SDW would post two new posts on her blog: (1) George Webb's interview with Project Camelot (01/26/17); (2) the letter of petition which the targeted individuals community has prepared for Donald Trump: “Memorandum on Domestic US Torture Programs Running Under Cover of Surveillance.” This is her first postings since 14 January. As noted, SDW, along with the targeted individuals community, is in love with Trump and somehow really believes that Trump will stop the targeting of innocent people – unaware of how bizarre their petition would appear to Trump's team even if the latter really gets to read it. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers today (plagiarism). (11:37 AM, “PC Books”.) 1 PM, Open Link Profiler indexing. As for the suspect, 8 PM, he has a lesson with the Missionary Sisters in the Visitors' Center.⁶ Tonight's lesson: being a good citizen. They talk about his vandalism case. Why he must wait to get baptized. Then, at the end of the lesson, the Sisters film the suspect with their iPad. They say they intend to send the video home. They then take a picture together. It's very likely that it's the Russians who have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to order the Missionary Sisters to film the suspect. Homeland Security CO chief will then edit the videos and the pictures before submitting them to the ICJ as evidences. The edited video and pictures will be compared with suspect's images in past official records to prove that he is not really Lawrence Chin but Lawrence Chin's twin brother. Such contrary evidences will enable the Russian side to survive a little longer in the ICJ. Note however that the suspect, after the lesson, talks to a Mormon elder in German. This, however, will be evidence in favor of the CIA.

6 From 18:00 onward in the recording.

On 29 January (a Sunday), the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to visit the suspect's website. 5:08 AM, the portrait of Frauke. 9:39 AM, the same Ecuador volunteer from 27 January looks up “Ying and Yang II” again. As for the suspect, he is with the Sisters at Mormon church this morning (Sunday service). Around 4:30 PM, SDW's TI friend Betty Dougia (Texas/ Florida) links the PP post from her Facebook page. She is obviously instructed by either SDW or Homeland Security CO chief to do this. Many other of her TI friends then come browsing over her Facebook. A certain Sofia LeGrande is then instructed to find the PP post and, 5:35 PM, make a comment on Betty's Facebook: “This is misleading...” Several more people will come to Betty's Facebook throughout the night. What are they doing? It must be the case that their rumors about the post will somehow end up in the ICJ as evidence supporting the SS women's claim about the suspect's delusions about them. From 6:30 PM onward, when the suspect is at Elysee, he chats with Daniel for a long time.⁷ The conversation will again be evidence in favor of the CIA. Strangely, tonight, the suspect begins to develop harmful intention toward Russia. This must be thanks to Russians' programming from the control center. It's indication that the Russians are about to submit the mind-reading computer and the intercepts of the suspect's thoughts into the ICJ as evidences. This is something quite mysterious: if the Russians do that, then their argument that the suspect is insane for believing there are chips inside his brain would no longer hold water. Hence it must be the case that the CIA, in order to prove that the suspect is not insane, has submitted the existence of the control center to the ICJ as evidence in the past few days. How exactly could they do that? As for Kiersten, she would today retweet other people's tweets 27 times – mostly rantings against Trump's Muslim ban. She is still busy perfecting her persona as a champion of victims of oppression and so anti-Trump. She does not want people to know the truth, that she is in love with Trump because she believes Trump will save her.

On the early morning of 30 January, around 5 AM, Lingual Consultancy sends the suspect a job offer. Are the SS women and Homeland Security CO chief trying to trick the suspect again hoping to obtain evidence suggesting that the “David Chin” document is the suspect's genuine confession? This afternoon, the suspect would put in his Taiwanese passport at the Taiwanese consulate for renewal. What a coincidence: he does this because his passport will expire in March; and yet this will be a perfect opportunity for the Russian side to gather evidence that he is not Lawrence Chin. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to mobilize volunteers to visit the suspect's website throughout the whole day (images and chapters). 2:38 PM, Timeline-2-14 is called up on pdfdrive.net. At night, the suspect will be engaged in a long chat with Daniel again at Elysee, about Alt-Right and Nick Land's “Dark Enlightenment”. More evidences in CIA's favor? 12:35 AM, Betty (Tampa, Florida) looks up the PP post again. Then, 1:31 AM, a volunteer from Hercules, California, looks up

⁷ Daniel talks about how to make his students think. It's only Daniel talking most of the time. About modernity, Zizek, and Ortega y Gasset. The suspect talks about his desire to combine Ortega with critical theory. Postmodernism as a continuation of modernism. When dumb people are poor, let them be poor.

Timeline-VIII (“gang-stalked”). The SS women and their volunteers are apparently working on the PP post all night tonight. They are evidently working hard to produce evidences to prolong the life of the Russians and their allies in the ICJ (to “revive” the ICJ trial in their mind).

On 4:34 AM, 31 January, another visit to “Cheney Plan”. The SS women will again spend the whole day mobilizing their volunteers to report on the suspect's plagiarism (or to brainstorm how to report such). It should be noted that a Perth volunteer has been looking at sacrifice.html everyday since 28 January. 4 times already! When he comes today on 2:41 PM, he also looks up appendix.html, germaninvasion.html, Table of Contents, and HT-contribution. He spends more than an hour on the suspect's website today. Probably brainstorming. Thus the SS women are working hard to save Russians' case in the ICJ. 4:10 PM, Eircom indexing (from perspective1.jpg). The SS women are probably planning to submit another index to persuade the TSA team to reconsider their judgment (that the suspect really is a plagiarizer). As for the suspect, after a tiring day, he would chat with Daniel again in Elysee tonight – all about “Dark Enlightenment” and Trump.

February, 2017

On 1 February, a Wednesday, as the SS women continue to send volunteers to the suspect's website, on 2:03 PM, they send the Perth volunteer for the fifth time. He looks up HT-contribution and the Table of Contents again. He is still brainstorming. Meanwhile, the suspect is connected with Wes on 2:27 PM. Strangely, his recorder is messed up – he seems to have pressed a wrong button on it – so that the beginning of this conversation is not recorded. Here are the details:

Conversation with Wes (01/02/2017)

(1) The US could convict FN of conspiracy with the SS women as terrorists. It would seem that FN has lost the ICJ trial last Wednesday, and the SS women are now trying to save them, hence they start a new phase of operation on Friday, to disprove TMU's profile of them and to prove that their profile of the suspect is correct. (2) Are the Russians going to lower his TESTDAF score again? (3) His thinking about how the current ICJ trial is a consequence of the previous ICJ trial might have been wrong. Maybe BOL wants Trump to be in power in order to be destroyed. The current ICJ trial is merely to replace evidences. The point of the whole show is to collect the evidence that he is not helping Russia. Perhaps this is its sole purpose. Then, Wes asks the suspect to call back in 15 minutes because he has a guest in his office (7:30). (The suspect has misheard him as saying “50 minutes”.)

The suspect is at storage, and then is reconnected with Wes on 49:00. (1) The SS women get updates from FN about the progress of the current ICJ trial, while he's not getting any updates from anyone. This is of course not really true: the Russians, FN, and Homeland Security CO chief might provide hints to the women, but, because they are “terrorists”, they can't reveal to them that they have been labeled “terrorists” and are dragging everyone they are helping down the water with them. (2) The suspect is not sure whether he can succeed with TestDaf. (3) His wrong scenarios on the PP post. The SS women staged a show during the weekend, as if SDW's friends had accidentally discovered the PP post. (4) The suspect's fatigue from homelessness, and the high rent everywhere. (5) The suspect reiterates his scenario: the SS women are trying to prove their profile of him is correct in order to save FN. It doesn't seem that the current ICJ trial will end in a judgment requiring everyone to help FN come to power. He has wasted the past 9 years with this ICJ trial business. Maybe there exists indeed BOL's sustainable civilization program. (6) About the Mormon church. Chastity. He would not be allowed to masturbate. (7) The suspect is done with Honneth's book. (8) About Daniel. Alt-Right. Trump's plan. (9) Wes has a different opinion about Trump: he believes he's on a reality TV show. (Is Wes hinting at something?) (10) Nick Land. (11) SDW might want to file a civil lawsuit against him on the basis of the PP post in order to produce evidence favorable for the Russian side in the ICJ. (12) What if he can't get into German universities? He doesn't want to wander the streets for the rest of his life. (13) Wes again suggests that he should ignore the SS women. Should he just be a dummy? (14) About Wes' broken phone service.

Once again, the suspect's correct conception that the US is trying to convict the National Front or the Russian side of conspiring with “terrorists” which the SS women are convinces the Russians that their correct course of action is to wait it out – wait for the suspect to reconstruct the details of CIA's countersuit last September. As for now, they can't yet accuse the CIA of conspiring with the suspect to send the SS women to conspire with them because the suspect hasn't yet figured out the details. This is also why the CIA continues to instruct Wes to dissuade the suspect from reconstructing.

Now, after the suspect's conversation with Wes, 6:30 PM, the SS women seem to be checking over his Facebook messages between 17/01 and 13/01. There are then fewer visits to his website after 8 PM. Are the SS women busy with something tonight? Are they analyzing the suspect's conversation with Wes this afternoon?

On 5:43 AM, 2 February, a certain “jia-mis3” sends the suspect a message on Interpal. This profile is however immediately deleted. Is this related to the SS women's operation? Perhaps the Russians have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to create a fake profile from which to communicate with the suspect but which he is ordered to quickly eliminate in order to prevent the suspect from finding out what evidences have been produced. If this is the case, the “jia-mis3” profile probably confirms the profile that the suspect hates whatever he loves and intends to conspire with Russia in order to convict Russia. 5:53 AM, a visit to “PC Books” (Algiers). 11:52 AM, “Timeline-X-9”. 2:49 PM, the Perth volunteer comes again (HT-contribution, thermex2.html). 3:25 PM, the SS women's volunteer collects the suspect's website (academylinks.html) onto LV Internal. 7:30 PM, MSSGDP. This would be another evidence entered into the ICJ to temporarily keep the Russian side afloat there. 12:09 AM, another “vik-kim3” sends the suspect a message on Interpal. Again, the profile is immediately deleted. This is probably another Homeland Security operation to produce evidence confirming that the suspect is a Russian agent (to frame Russia). The Russian side has probably saved themselves for a few more days with these two fake Interpal messages today.

Now, 3 February. On 8:39 AM, another visit to “Cheney Plan” from Algeria. It must be to confirm the same story which the SS women have made up about this essay. As for the suspect, on 2 PM, he meets with Dorit for the second time. 2:58 PM, the Perth volunteer comes again (HT-contribution and thermex2.html). 5 PM, the suspect meets with the Missionary Sisters in the Visitors' Center. They together watch a movie about Joseph Smith. After 6 PM, the SS women seem to be busy with something: very few visits. Are they communicating with the Missionary Sisters? After 11 PM, they have resumed operation. 11:48 PM, a visit to “fake meetup profiles”. Evidence of the suspect's impersonation? 3:28 AM, a visit to “Political Correctness as Culture Industry”

On 5:51 AM, 4 February (a Saturday), a Partisan (south of France) checks out the recordings and videos from 16/05/2010. The Partisan is probably here helping the SS women make stronger case that their confidentiality must be respected because the suspect has violated their privacy in these recordings. (These recordings are in fact inconsequential.) 6:44 AM, VeriCite (a plagiarism detector) crawls the suspect's chapter “Victim Feminism”. It seems that the SS women are trying to forge evidence showing the suspect plagiarizing here. This is the first time that they employ “VeriCite”: they will from now on repeatedly use this tool. 1:01 PM, the SS women order another round of Eircom indexing: perspective1.jpg, index page, thermex2.html, links.html, gallery.html, 1.html, and acad.html. This is apparently to demonstrate that plagiarized material (perspective1.jpg) is found on the suspect's website. (The SS women must have recreated the diagram in perspective1.jpg elsewhere in order to frame the suspect for plagiarism.) 3:08 PM, the Perth volunteer shows up again (HT-contribution and thermex2.html). He is presumably asked to continue to brainstorm for solutions. 3:24 AM, a visit to capra7777.html from UC San Diego.

On the morning of 5 February, between 9:44 AM and 11:05 AM, up to 5 volunteers (including one in Germany) are making a big fuss over Betty's Facebook and the PP post linked from there. This is evidently evidence to keep the Russian side afloat in the ICJ. On 12:41 PM and then on 4:24 PM, another Shenectady volunteer is making a big fuss over the PP post. 4:49 PM, another visit to the PP post from the Netherlands. 5:50 PM, another volunteer from Texas is Googling either “LC Donald Trump” or “LC Los Angeles” to arrive at “Prelude D-4K”. Are the SS women trying to convince the Trump team to re-enter the race? 9:24 PM, a visit to Shizuka's portrait (Mission Viejo). A complaint on behalf of Ms Kudo? Tonight, while in Elysee, the suspect will read portions of Dugin's The Fourth Political Theory. 2:38 AM, a visit to “Tang dress” (Singapore): a complaint on behalf of Robin?

On 4:20 AM, 6 February, the SS women order another round of indexing from Romania (index pages and Meetup recordings from 2008 and early 2009). Are the SS women submitting another index to the TSA reminding them to respect their “confidentiality”? (Getting a hint that the Russian side is barely surviving in the ICJ.) 4:36 AM, a visit to TIH summary page 2 from Sweden. Then, on 7:41 AM, a very special volunteer from the Dublin Institute of Technology:

147.252.48.191 - - [06/Feb/2017:08:41:12 -0700] "GET /scientificenlightenment1/capra.html HTTP/1.1" 200 11832 "-" "Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Gecko) Chrome/46.0.2490.76 Mobile Safari/537.36"

This volunteer is very likely the computer engineer behind all the Eircom indexing. Then, from 10:25 AM, it's the volunteer from Lincoln Center for Performing Arts, looking up aztec.html and the TIH and SCI Table of Contents. Whenever he comes, it's a sign that the Russian side is not doing well and that the SS women are trying to save their case, thus asking their “expert guy” to brainstorm. On 5:30 PM, Karin is hosting her Any Language and Culture meetup. For the rest of the day, the SS women continue to send volunteers to visit chapters and images on the suspect's website, probably partly to report on them and partly to brainstorm. As for the suspect, after an upsetting day, he chats briefly with Daniel in Elysee tonight.

On 7 February, between 5 PM and 11 AM, SDW posts a new blog post “RISS” on her blog. She would then post 3 more messages on her Facebook Group, between 3:55 PM and 4:30 PM. It is perhaps to strengthen the SS women's case that SDW wants law enforcement surveillance to intercept the suspect cyberstalking her. On 4:06 PM, she has also sent a volunteer from the UK to fetch the document “Suffering Woman”. She is most likely adding another complaint about the suspect's harassment and stalking of her to the piles of complaints already at the TSA. Also, in the afternoon, the suspect comes to the Taiwanese consulate again to show them his US passport as they have demanded. The Russians are probably waiting on this piece of evidence. On 7:17 PM, the Lincoln Center volunteer comes again to look up the Table of Contents. Is he doing a status check – to see whether the site is still up – or is he here to brainstorm per the SS women's request? 7:46 PM, a German volunteer is checking “Frauke” on Bing: no, he finds only the portraits of Marion, Marine, and Sahra. Microsoft has maintained the removal of the suspect's portrait of Frauke from Bing's search results. Is this evidence in favor of the Russian side? Meanwhile, the SS women continue to mobilize other volunteers to file, or brainstorm how to file, complaints about the suspect's plagiarism.

Now, 8 February. 4:48 AM, a visit to Marine's portrait. 5:50 AM, a strange visit from China to “Frankfurt and Brussels”. Significantly, 1:27 PM, Dorit sends a text message to the suspect: he wants the suspect's email address in order to send him a few materials for his test. This is obviously bullshit: the Russians have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to order Dorit to solicit the suspect's Gmail address in order to be able to submit the “David Chin” document to the TSA as proof that the suspect is impersonating himself and uses computers to forge translation work. The suspect notices that something is up, and so gives her only his Yahoo email address. This, however, only enables the SS women to prove to the TSA that the suspect has been cyberstalking Karin. On 2:47 PM, the suspect is connected with Wes (from 48:00 onward). Note that the suspect's growing understanding of the relationship between Kerry's negotiation last summer and his ICJ case must be disheartening to the CIA. The Russians are waiting for the whole package, and the suspect is almost there. He has so far: (1) Kerry's negotiation; and (2) Russia's current attempt to prevent National Front's conviction. The Russians are waiting for him to understand the relationship between the two and the intermediate details. Secondly, note the suspect's confession that his mind-control torture has slightly resumed, although so slightly that it's not causing him too much problems. In order to keep themselves afloat in the ICJ while waiting for the suspect to reconstruct, the Russians begin to consider whether they should hurt him in order to provoke him to violence which would be evidence to temporarily confirm that the SS women's claims about him as dangerous are correct. But, heeding the “filter” inside the computer, they are afraid to do it lest they suffer bad consequences. (Presumably they don't mind if the suspect gets compensated in the end.)

Conversation with Wes (08/02/2017)

(1) The suspect is mistaken: the SS women are still debating with the Secret Service about whether their profile of him is correct. He hasn't yet figured out that it's now the TSA. Then he is correct: “Maybe the Russian side is now working to prevent FN from being convicted.... By now it's virtually impossible for the Russian side to win unless confidentiality is respected.” (2) About Fillon's scandal (the Penelope Gate). Will FN really win the election? Is it related to him? Mr Homeland Security CO chief under Russian command. The US negotiation with Russia in August last year over Syria: to get rid of Homeland Security's and NULND's conviction. (3) “This trial is solely to replace evidences in order to secure the judgment from the previous ICJ trial.” If his speculation on BOL is correct, the judgment is about cultural programs, about sustainable civilization; if not, it's about Russians' geopolitical interests. Everybody in the US Establishment will of course think the suspect is completely mistaken here (has misinterpreted the current happening because of his incorrect preconception). As has been noted, because BOL's program (the previous ICJ trial) is being realized through the method of “self-fulfilling prophecy”, one can't really say whether the suspect is correct or mistaken. (4) The SS women don't seem to grasp the hopelessness of their project. (5) NULND has left the State Department. (6) TestDaf is next Tuesday, and he is not studying well. He doubts whether he is doing the right thing. The bad weather in Europe, and so on. His difficulty in finding housing. (7) The first ICJ trial runs from November 2007 to September 2015 – almost 8 years. This current ICJ trial could run for a very long time in order to replace the previous one. (8) Kiersten's Secret Society has also been in existence for 5 years. Such an enormous campaign to ban a website! Approximately 30,000 false reports so far. The suspect is the most detested person in human history. (9) Marine might really win in France. (10) Dugin, and those professors in Frankfurt. But they are fanatical about America. (11) What Wes has been reading. Mysticism. On civil society. (12) Many studies have shown that anti-depressants are no better than placebos. (13) The suspect's website is in fact more secure in the US, protected by US geopolitical interests. (14) He hopes he is not doing things to make his life worse. He is clearly an extraneous person to this society. (15) The SS women get instructions from FN about what to do, but he doesn't. It's unfair. (16) He is still correcting his writings. Why are there so many mistakes? (17) His torture has slightly resumed. He is more irritable lately. His computer malfunctions more often than before. (18) The media is biased against Trump. The symbiotic relationship between Trump and the media. The suspect in fact enjoys being reported by the SS women if it weren't for the fact that it costs him so much time. Negative publicity is better than no publicity. Trump is building his own brand. The suspect is so detestable, that's why everyone he supports wants him dead. About picking his nose in the restaurant. (19) The suspect's heroes: Joseph Smith and Donald Trump. (20) The suspect wants more oracles. (21) The suspect has improved his German, but can't be expected to do well on the test, for he can't hear and write at the same time. (22) Wes on multitasking. (23) The suspect: “If I say to them 'I love you', they will kill me.” Wes: “And if you say 'I hate you', they will say, 'Oh, good!’”

On 4:45 PM, the suspect meets with Dorit for the third time in the Starbucks on Main Street. The lesson goes especially bad. The suspect can't speak any German at all. The Russians are commanding Homeland Security CO chief to control the suspect to be especially inhibited in order to obtain another evidence confirming the SS women's profile of him as uneducated and a charlatan. Early evening, when the suspect is chatting with Daniel in Elysee, he complains: “I can only read German, but can't speak it.” He is here again understating his ability because he's frustrated and wants to berate himself. However, the Russians would use this as evidence against him. They would use the evidences obtained today about the suspect's supposed poor German to keep themselves afloat in the ICJ while waiting for his reconstruction.

Meanwhile, the SS women have spent another day reporting, or brainstorming how to report, the suspect for plagiarism. 3:32 AM, the SS women order a round of VeriCite checking for the second time: culturalfeminism.html; actorinir2.pdf; yuexer3.html; and exper3.html.

On the morning of 9 February, VeriCite checking continues. 4:23 AM, VeriCite: thermhchapter5.html. 4:47 AM, a visit to TL-II-R from Edinburgh, UK. 4:50 AM, VeriCite, holywh.html. 1:21 PM, the volunteer from 2 February collects again academylinks.html onto LV Internal. This volunteer from the Philippines then looks up the front page of the suspect's website. Then, it seems that, after another day of brainstorming how to falsely report the suspect for plagiarism, the SS women are taking a long break from 8 PM onward. Around 11:27 PM, a volunteer notifies them that the suspect has just posted something new on his Facebook, and they come to take a look. Perhaps they have got a reply early evening from TSA's BDOs saying their “testimonies” have been rejected and their help is no longer needed. They are now brainstorming for solution.

On early morning of 10 February, 6:09 AM, after brainstorming for hours, the SS women ask the same hacker friend from Romania to index the index pages and recordings from 2008 on the suspect's website. The indexing seems identical to that on 6 February. Perhaps the SS women are thinking that, by fixing the indexing a little, they can convince the TSA to respect their “victim confidentiality” (since the violation of their “confidentiality” must be the cause for the rejection of their testimonies). 9:07 AM, they seem to be looking at the suspect's Facebook. They will then spend the rest of the day continuing to mobilize their volunteers to report on, or brainstorm how to report on, the suspect's plagiarism. As for the suspect, 3:30 PM, he has his lesson with Dorit: this time it is excellent. He describes to her somewhat what will become his “leftist conservatism”.

After midnight, the suspect goes to sleep by the abandoned theater south of Wilshire and Westwood. An old homeless white man – supposedly a regular in the area – comes over and wants to beat him up. This is too suspicious: we have to assume that the Russians have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to program this man to come provoke the suspect into a fight – in order to confirm the SS women's claim that the suspect is dangerous. After TSA's rejection of the SS women's testimonies yesterday, the Russians desperately need more evidence to keep themselves afloat inside the ICJ.

On 11 February, the suspect would spend the whole day in the motel. He is showering and so on to get ready for his flight. As for the SS women, they spend the whole day continuing to prepare reports about the suspect's plagiarism. Then, strangely, between 8:40 PM and 1:30 AM, SS women seem to be on break. Since the suspect's flight is within two days and the Russians have pretty much lost their case in the ICJ, it's possible that the SS women are trying to save them by going to meet with the TSA BDOs to explain to them the danger which the suspect poses. Dr P, again, would be: “I’m a licensed psychologist, and he used to be my patient. I have expertise on him. He is very dangerous because of his severe mental illness...” She has been serving for years as expert psychoanalyst of this racist, misogynist, antisemitic, schizophrenic, plagiarizing, computer-hacking, and impersonating terrorist stalker of women frustrated with his sexual impotence and who possibly works for foreign powers for law enforcement agencies, politicians, and foreign dignitaries – and now she is again excited. However, TSA BDOs have already been warned by the CIA that this woman is a fraud. Nevertheless, the SS women's fuss over nothing is evidence in the ICJ to temporarily keep the Russian side afloat.

On 12 February, the suspect is out of the motel in the morning and is going to LAX airport at night. Since 5 PM last night, SDW has posted a new post on her blog: “Shameless Torture in the Age of Electronic Warfare. WBB Talks to Ramola D.” She evidently wants to reinforce her gang's testimonies from last night by getting law enforcement to intercept the suspect cyberstalking her. The SS women then continue to mobilize their volunteers to send reports about the suspect's plagiarism to the TSA BDOs. Note that, 2:29 PM, a volunteer using proxy visits “Poisonous Friends I”. The SS women are evidently making a report to the TSA about the suspect's severe delusions about their involvement in government conspiracies to go after him. 4:11 PM, they seem to be looking at the suspect's Facebook discovering his new post on Nancy Fraser. 8:57 PM, the Missionary Sisters call the suspect wanting to know the size of his waist. The suspect replies “30” or “31”. He is dimly aware that this is to gather evidence that he is impersonating his own twin brother, but can't understand why. He has difficulty in grasping the fact that the Sisters have been recruited by Homeland Security CO chief and are not aware that they are working for the Russians. While the SS women's commotion with the TSA last night is temporarily keeping the Russians afloat, the Russians of course know that, tomorrow, the suspect will not cause any problem on the flight and thus will discredit Dr P altogether. They are here to obtain another evidence to keep themselves afloat since the records that are in Russians' hand about him are from years ago, when the suspect was a lot thinner. 1:57 AM, the SS women seem to be looking at the suspect's Facebook again. It's not clear whether they are attempting to contact professor Fraser.

On the morning of 13 February, the suspect is on the plane going to Chicago. He arrives there on 3:30 PM local time, or 1:30 PM Pacific Standard Time. The fact that he has arrived without incident is, as noted, not good news for the Russians, even though it's expected. As for the SS women, they seem to have decided that, after trying to convince the TSA that the suspect is insane and so on, they must mobilize all their resources to prove that the suspect is a plagiarizer. This is their most difficult task: it's because their ultimate purpose is to win the ICJ trial that they need to get law enforcement to confirm every single detail of their false profile of the suspect; otherwise, why should the TSA care whether the suspect has plagiarized? 5:42 AM, the SS women again ask their volunteer to forge evidence to prove that the suspect has plagiarized. Then, around 10 AM, Cyveillance (38.100.21.65) comes to index the suspect's website. While Cyveillance is merely following its routine, it comes just in time. Perhaps the CIA and the Secret Service will tell the TSA BDOs to access Cyveillance's database in order to produce evidence for the ICJ to refute the SS women's evidences. Then, throughout the day, the SS women would mobilize their volunteers to make more than a dozen reports about the suspect's plagiarism to the TSA (along with reports about his expressing delusions about his women victims). 12:31 PM, a volunteer from Switzerland looks up the suspect's portrait of President Xi and Geert. 12:12 AM, another report on the portrait of President Xi.

Today, 14 February, the suspect is to take TestDaf. He is at the Goethe Institute by 8 AM. Something is up. It seems that both sides have sent in agents to confirm that the suspect is indeed taking the test. Notably, there is a Russian girl taking the test who speaks perfect English and German. Afterwards, the suspect hangs out with Ben. At one point, he discusses world's energy supply problem with him. As for the SS women's operation today: 5:34 AM, Ichen sends the suspect a job offer via ProZ: merely a message with no IP address. (Syracuse, New York. Solten Group.) Have the SS women warned their sender about not exposing his IP address? They are probably still trying to help the Russian side obtain evidence that the "David Chin" document is the suspect's genuine confession. They then continue to spend tremendous effort trying to prove to the TSA that the suspect is a plagiarizer. Their volunteers must have sent in more than two dozen testimonies. 11:35 PM, the SS women also check up the suspect's Facebook ("Kraft der Gedanken", Fraser).

On the early morning of 15 February, the suspect returns to Los Angeles on Spirit Flight. He would experience a very frustrating day. He can't stay in storage after 12 PM (closed) and Wes is not in the office today. When he is resting in Ackerman in the afternoon, the lady at the Taiwanese consulate calls him to inform him that they will disconnect his Taiwanese passport from his US passport and dispose of his oversea citizen status. One has to wonder whether it is because the Russians have contacted the Taiwanese consulate and made a big fuss about it (Is the "Lawrence" on the Taiwanese passport really the same "Lawrence" on the US passport?) that the consulate staff has decided this. Then, at night, when the suspect is in Elysee, he has a long chat with Daniel: about Gadamer, Badiou, Joseph Smith, and history. It's CIA's evidence that the suspect doesn't fit the SS women's profile of him.

Today is a momentous day because, after the suspect has landed in Los Angeles without incident, the TSA, under CIA's instruction, removes the suspect from their watchlist. The TSA BDOs might have informed the SS women (especially Dr P) about this. This is of course entered into evidence in the ICJ so that, once again, the ICJ issues a judgment declaring Homeland Security's (the SS women's) profile of the suspect to be incorrect. That is, a judgment declaring Russia and its allies to have conspired with the SS women (a bunch of terrorists). As the Russian side is convicted, the Russians would of course continue to fight on – to enter more evidences suggesting there might be some truth in the SS women's testimonies after all so that they can keep themselves afloat. The SS women thus continue to mobilize their volunteers for the whole day to report on the suspect's plagiarism hoping to persuade the TSA to revise their conclusion. Meanwhile, Kiersten would retweet 9 times today, 8 of which are about Trump. It's her first time since 30 January. Is she wishing one last time for law enforcement to intercept the suspect cyberstalking her?

For the morning of 16 February, the SS women are still sending a lot of volunteers to look up images on the suspect's website. However, they seem to be decoys. They seem to have got a hint from Homeland Security CO chief that it is crisis for their side in the ICJ. (Of course they won't be told that the Russian side has been convicted.) They begin regrouping. Meanwhile, in the afternoon, the suspect has difficulty uploading the revised version of “K's Meetups” and “TL-III” to his website. It's not clear which side is obstructing him – but it probably has something to do with the ICJ trial. The SS women then spend the afternoon brainstorming how to successfully report the suspect for plagiarism. 8 PM or so, when the suspect is in Elysee, he chats with Daniel for a long time, declaring that decreasing productivity of the masses will be the goal of his philosophical cult. This is probably evidence in CIA's favor (that he is not mentally retarded). But the Russians are about to strike him. Almost 11 PM, the suspect is sleeping by the theater: it would supposedly rain. 1:30 AM or so, the same homeless man comes to attack him. The man takes away his cellphone so that he has to tackle the man down the ground to get his phone back. He then has to call the police. Again, this man is probably a Homeland Security agent whom the Russian side has sent in to provoke him: both to produce evidence confirming that the SS women's claim that he is violent and dangerous is correct, and to prepare him to produce evidence showing him hating Russia. The Russian team needs new evidences to suspend their conviction. When the police has arrived, a guy wearing earphones walks past. This could be CIA's surveillance: to prevent the Russian team from using Homeland Security faulty surveillance to obtain evidence that the suspect is violent (that he attacked somebody who then called the police). The CIA's evidence that the suspect is considered by the police to be the victim would, in the ICJ, cancel the faulty surveillance which the Russian side has brought in. It should be noted that the suspect has also seen an increase of the number of Russians around him lately. The Russians might very well be using Homeland Security's faulty surveillance to produce evidences showing him conspiring with Homeland Security CO chief to stage his being a Russian agent.

On 17 February, the Russians would finally succeed in prolonging their life in the ICJ. 2:30 PM, when the suspect is waiting for the bus in Pershing Square, a Hispanic man tries to provoke him by stealing his cigarette from his mouth. Annoyed – another Russian attempt to prove him dangerous and wanting to hurt Russia – the suspect fights back. Then he says so (“God-damned Russians”) to the old white man standing next to him. “Do you know Russian?” the old man replies with his heavy accent. Maybe this old man is a Russian agent while the Hispanic man is a Nicaragua agent (or something like that) who works with the Russian intelligence. Certainly the man is placed there as part of the setup: the positive sensation which the suspect experiences about this man's sophistication can be combined with the anger toward Russia seconds earlier to produce the evidence that the suspect does hate and love Russia at the same time – confirming the SS women's false profile of him. This again demonstrates that the Russians are using the intercepts of the suspect's thoughts in the ICJ as evidences. With this new evidence, the ICJ judgment convicting Russia and its allies is temporarily suspended.

Today is also significant for Trump. He holds a press conference today in order to berate the press as “Enemy of the People”.

As for the SS women, they would spend the whole morning today sending volunteers to look up the images on the suspect's website. Brainstorming? Decoys? Significantly, right after the Pershing Square incident, 4:17 PM, the Saint Petersburg hacker comes to index the suspect's website: epilogue225.html, acad.html, epilogue2.html, thermex2.html, daly.html, gallery.html, culturalfeminism.html, thermhch2.html, thermhchapter5.html, thermh2.html, originofevil.html, ancestorcult.html, socrates.html, biopower2.html, and democracy2.html. 5:45 PM, the Saint Petersburg hacker comes again: 1.html, all the links on 1.html, links.html, and acad.html. After the incident at Pershing Square, the suspect comes to the Visitors' Center to meet with the Missionary Sisters. It's only too strange that today's lesson is about “forgiveness”. Is the CIA giving him a message? (It is because he couldn't hold in his anger that the Russians are able to revive themselves today.) But aren't the Sisters supposed to work for Homeland Security and the Russians?

Amazingly, there are no more visits from the SS women after 9 PM. They must be discussing with Homeland Security CO chief and the Russians the good news that the ICJ trial has been “revived”. Now that there is new evidence of the suspect's violent nature and danger to others, the women shall work hard to produce evidences of his plagiarism. 10:50 PM, they use VeriCite (their first time since 9 February): menard.htm; feefeeval5rev.pdf; representation222.html; index.html; decking.html; capra7777.html; /p/; dukepanelN.htm; ancestorcult.html; exper5.html; epilogue2.html; yuA.html; and daly.html. Clearly, such is the Russian side's new evidences in the ICJ: “New evidences found: he loves and hates us at the same time. His website is full of anti-feminist hate speech and people's private information. And he has plagiarized. The women's claim about him is correct.” Note that IPS-Agent comes to index the suspect's website on 3:40 AM. Is this CIA's response?

Now, for 18 February, a Saturday, the SS women will again spend the whole day brainstorming how to falsely report the suspect for plagiarizing. They are presumably sending in their reports to the TSA asking them to reconsider their removal of the suspect from their watchlist. Meanwhile, it is probably the CIA which has instructed Wes to go to his office today to wait for the suspect's call in order to be able to intercept the suspect's testimonies as evidences – since another round of battle has just started in the ICJ.

Conversation with Wes (18/02/17)

11:04 AM, the suspect is connected with Wes. (1) About the revival of ICJ trial and all the provocation yesterday. Like the SS women, the suspect doesn't quite comprehend that the Russian side has just saved themselves from total conviction, that it is not simply about reviving a dismissed trial. The suspect continues: “The revival has saved the SS women as well.” (2) There is a role reversal here in comparison to the previous ICJ trial. (3) The old white man from yesterday: was he a Russian agent? How this was Russians' evidence that he loves and hates Russia at the same time. Did the US Establishment reactivate the previous ICJ trial? Wrong scenario again! More evidence of the suspect's delusional mind (Russians' evidence). (4) The US/ German government has inflated the suspect's test score the last time. This confession might have enabled the Russians to claim that he has conspired with the CIA and so to obtain an ICJ order requiring the German government to artificially lower his test score this time. (As you shall see, the suspect will get a failing grade this time.) The suspect continues: The Russians' argument is that “He speaks just as he thinks and feels. His words must be interpreted literally.” Meanwhile, the Invisible Hand's argument: “He understates himself.” The suspect has well understood this part: it's evidence in CIA's favor (that he is not insane). (5) The suspect's mind-control torture has somewhat resumed. (6) Did the ICJ judges go to the British Old Lady to ask her: Is he correct about this “sustainable civilization program”? Again, wrong scenario! Nobody believes that the current ICJ trial has anything to do with the previous ICJ trial. (7) The suspect's Taiwanese passport can't connect with his US passport. Will the ICJ case evaporate when he changes citizenship? Again, the suspect couldn't comprehend the real significance of this event. (8) Homeland Security's bullshit has legal force for eternity. (9) Trump is put in the office to replace evidences. Again, the “replacement of evidences” from the previous ICJ trial is a difficult issue; but, here, this is again Russians' evidence that the suspect is insane – even though Trump has already withdrawn himself from this trial. (10) Is there any plan to de-globalize the planet by decoupling Russia and China? Not at all. Again, Russians' evidence that the suspect is dumb and stupid. (11) About Joseph Smith. This might be Russians' evidence to confirm Kiersten's claim that the suspect is obsessed with prophecies, superstition, and spirituality due to his delusion of grandiosity (Kiersten's projection of herself onto the suspect). (12) The SS women's plagiarized version of the suspect's writings. The early versions of his manuscripts at Library of Congress Copyright Center. (13) The SS women's attitude: “You are supposed to be obsessed with them and get arrested for it, if you aren't obsessed and don't get arrested then you need to die.” This is CIA's evidence, for this demonstrates that the suspect has a better understanding of these women's psychology than they do of his even though he couldn't see them. (14) Then, strangely, at the end of the conversation, Wes suddenly proclaims: “I'll give you an oracle, 'Keep the dream alive.’” The meaning of this oracle shall soon be seen.

1:10 PM, soon after the suspect is done with Wes, Mariam from the Green Party calls him asking him whether he wants to volunteer for Kenneth's campaign. 4:50 PM or so, MSSGDP. Evidence in favor of the Russian side. 6:13 PM, Mariam calls the suspect again asking him to translate Kenneth's campaign flier into Chinese. The suspect wrongly assumes that the SS women have linked up with the Green party and have been brainstorming this afternoon about what evidences they need the Greens to obtain from him. He wrongly assumes that they have decided that they need new evidence to validate the “David Chin” document as referring to reality and so instructed Mariam to ask him to do some translation. He also wrongly assumes that the Green party is working with the Secret Service as well and has received permission from them to cooperate with the SS women. For this reason, he begins to hesitate whether he should do this translation job at all. However, past 11:30 PM, he suddenly discovers an email from the Green Party titled “Am I dreaming?” Only then does he realize that it is the Invisible Hand who has wanted him to do the translation job. He would not know until months later that all his assumptions are incorrect: the Green Party has never developed any connection with the SS women because, when he joined the Greens in August last year, he was no longer a “terrorist”.

On the morning of 19 February, when the suspect comes to Elsyee, he sees the same Russian couple who were here last night. They are doing programming. The Russians are evidently using Homeland Security's faulty surveillance to produce evidence of the suspect's being a computer-hacker as a way to prolong their life in the ICJ. These Russian agents will do more mischief later. When the suspect comes to the storage, he adds a notice in his “Marine” essay disavowing his anti-American language in it. Then, he finishes the flier, and sends it to Mariam. It was 4 PM. This is CIA's evidence that the suspect really does translation by himself – the “David Chin” document is a joke. Meanwhile, the SS women spend the whole day sending in volunteers' testimonies about the suspect's plagiarism to TSA. It should finally be noted that, in international domain, the Syrian Question is currently being debated in the Sicherheitskonferenz in Munich.

For 20 February, Kiersten tweet massively. Is she hoping for law enforcement to intercept the suspect cyberstalking her? As for the suspect, between 1 PM and 2 PM, he is severely irritated because his calls to Uncle Dave are continually disrupted. From 3 PM onward, he would chat with Daniel about Zizek in Elysee. However, throughout, he would be troubled by opposite thoughts. Clearly, the Russians are submitting the intercepts of the suspect's thoughts as evidence in the ICJ: it's proof that the suspect is indeed a charlatan and a danger to others in conformity to Kiersten's claim since he is thinking about something else – bad thoughts about hurting people – while listening to Daniel. From 6 PM onward, he is meeting with the Missionary Sisters and other Mormon Sisters in the Visitors' Center. He is again troubled by incessant flow of opposite thoughts throughout. The Russians are again commanding Homeland Security CO chief to produce evidences confirming the SS women's claims that the suspect is violently dangerous and always wanting to hurt people, especially minorities. The evidences should be sufficient to keep the Russian side afloat in the ICJ. Then, there is no more opposite thought torture for the rest of the night. After 8 PM, when the suspect comes back to Elysee, Fatma is very mean to him. She has heard more complaints about the suspect – these might have been made by those Russian agents who have been populating the suspect's environment lately – with the mission of producing evidences to confirm the SS women's claims about him.

As for the SS women's operation today: 6:56 AM, a volunteer from Germany is searching for the suspect's portraits of Marine, Geert, and Frauke. Then, 7:01 AM, he searches for the portrait of President Xi. 7:03 AM, the portrait for Anja. Then, from 3 PM to 3:30 PM, the volunteers look up “PC Books”, “Kulturindustrie”, and “Time Line II”. Another day of submitting testimonies about the suspect's harassment of famous people, plagiarism, and suffering delusions about his victims' going after him.

What's going on in the world today should also be noted: (1) there is a new cease fire in Ukraine. (2) Pence is in Brussels and Marine Le Pen is in Lebanon. (3) Another scandal: Marine Le Pen's assistant in EU has also got paid for work never done. Clearly, after the Russian side has commanded Homeland Security CO chief to play tricks to ruin Fillon, the US Establishment has returned the favor wanting to ruin Marine.

For the whole day of 21 February, the SS women are mobilizing their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism (or brainstorm how to make such false reports). (One of the volunteers works in the Roselle Public Library in Roselle, Illinois.) They are still trying to change TSA officers' mind. As for the suspect, he goes to see a room for rent in Monterey Park: he is almost scammed. When he is in Elysee at night, he chats with Daniel. They discuss “enjoyment” (jouissance). This is again CIA's evidence.

For 22 February, a Wednesday, the suspect would be upset the whole day. He is supposed to connect up with Wes, and yet has somehow missed him. Then he has difficulty connecting up with the people offering rooms for rent. 2:50 PM, the Missionary Sisters call him while he is on the bus going to Koreatown. They then call him again on 7:49 PM when he is in the SM library. By late night, he is so upset that he has decided to forget about quitting smoking and the whole Mormon business. He feels as if the SS women were trying to prevent him from finding housing. In reality, it's probably the Russians who are commanding Homeland Security CO chief to program him to get frustrated as a way to produce favorable evidences for them.

As for the SS women, while they spend another day brainstorming how to prove that the suspect is a plagiarizer, they are also engaged in proving other bad characteristics which they have attributed to him. From 1:17 PM to 1:25 PM, they are looking at his Facebook. 6:47 PM, another visit to Geert's portrait (Virginia). 12:35 AM, another visit to Geert's portrait (Göttingen). It should finally be noted that Kiersten tweets a Japanese word, tatamae (建前), on his Twitter.⁸ Now she is trying to show off to her audience her education in all this Oriental wisdom as well.

On the afternoon of 23 February, the suspect is finally able to talk to Wes on the phone.

Conversation with Wes (23/02/17)

The suspect is connected with Wes from 7:00 onward. (1) The suspect confirms once more that the control center's torture has resumed since 1 February. It was particularly bad in the past few days. A lot of opposite thoughts. The SS women have close connections with the control center. Its agenda: to prevent him from finding housing. Perhaps to confirm the SS women's profile that he enjoys homelessness. The Russian side would definitely use this confession as evidence of the suspect's insanity – confirming the SS women's claim that he suffers delusions about their going after him: this is in fact the point of all the mind-control torture. (2) The suspect announces that he has decoded Wes' oracle “Keep the Dream alive”: to persuade him to do translation work for the Green Party. (3) It was the SS women who had controlled him to have an outburst against Russia last week. He is wrong again! Hence another evidence in favor of the Russians (insanity; delusion about his victims' going after him). (4) The Russians will not win this trial, they will either lose or withdraw. The US has reactivated the previous ICJ trial, it now needs to change its direction, the Establishment wants the US to remain in power, as long as the US wouldn't lose its power, they will do it. Complete bullshit again! More evidence in favor of the Russians. (5) About Zizek. About “enjoyment” in political ideology. Those activists on both the left and the right don't understand why they take up their positions, they are wasting their time arguing. (6) Why the Mormon church attracts him. The contrast with the Orthodox church. Liberal faces but conservative. Being part of the majority is always too boring. (7) About the Book of Mormon, and the accusation against Joseph Smith that he plagiarized. (8) Wes mentions Cotaire Rapaille's “Cultural Code”. Why do people become liberal and conservative? The suspect: “I don't want to be liberal because I'm in a liberal state.” (9) There is echo on Wes' side, as if he's being recorded.

As for the SS women's operation on the suspect's website today: a volunteer from South

8 And so one finds in Wikipedia: “Honne and tatamae are Japanese words that describe the contrast between a person's true feelings and desires (本音 hon'ne, 'true sound') and the behavior and opinions one displays in public (建前 tatamae, 'built in front', 'façade').”

Africa visits “Suffering Woman” on 5:21 AM. Presumably another testimony submitted to the TSA about the suspect's harassment of SDW. The suspect will also attend the monthly Stammtish tonight. Amazingly, Haiko (i.e. Karin's spy) shows up. Is Karin's gang trying to produce a false testimony (that the suspect is a charlatan and doesn't know any German) to help keep the Russian side afloat in the ICJ? Then, 8:39 AM, the volunteer from Dublin Institute of Technology conducts another “Eircom indexing” – this time to prove that the suspect has plagiarized perspective1.jpg from other sources. 9:33 AM, he comes again, this time to prove that haidapoles.jpg is plagiarized. 11:02 AM, another visit to Sahra's portrait. 12:45 PM, another visit to the portraits of Anja, Geert, and President Xi. Thus you can see that the SS women have spent another day trying to convince the TSA that the suspect did plagiarize and harass women and famous people, that their expert testimonies about him are accurate, and that he should therefore not be taken off the watchlist.

24 February will be a strange day for the suspect. Almost 10 AM, when he is smoking in front of Elysee, a white trash wearing earphones stops in front of him, lights up his cigarette bud (marijuana?), and then walks away. It's evidently the Russians who have commanded Homeland Security CO chief to use faulty surveillance to enter evidence into the ICJ indicating that the suspect smokes marijuana and is a drug user. The suspect is then continually provoked when he is intermittently not allowed to use Wi-Fi in Elysee. He then chats with Daniel. Some opposite thoughts. 7 PM, he meets with the Missionary Sisters in the Visitors' Center.⁹ They discuss the suspect's housing problem; then, the Sisters again film the suspect. It's almost certain that Homeland Security CO chief will edit the film and then take it to the ICJ to prove that the suspect doesn't quite look like himself. Then, strangely, after midnight, a stranger comes over to the suspect to give him 10 dollars, saying, “I appreciate you.” Is this another Russian intelligence/ Homeland Security operation?

Note that, since 5 PM last night, SDW would post a new post on her blog, “Why first responders are gang-stalking you”. As for the SS women's operation on the suspect's website today: the women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports, or to brainstorm how to make false reports, about the suspect's plagiarism. 1:24 PM, a volunteer from Missouri visits “Kulturindustrie” (“McDonaldization”). Is he furnishing evidence to help the Russians discredit CIA's most important evidence back in April last year?

25 February is a special day for the suspect. He would succeed today in visiting a room for rent and putting down the down payment for it. It's in a Chinese family home in Monterey Park. By now he has realized that the control center has been obstructing him only in order for him to develop “delusions” about the SS women's not allowing him to do this and that 9 From 4:20:00 onward in the recording. By this time Sister MLDNDO has already got a new partner, Sister Lopez. About housing. Toward the end, the Sisters call the suspect their “best friend” and then film themselves together with him.

so that he could conform to their false profile of him.

1:26 PM, SDW posts a message on her Facebook, “Kid kicked by a police officer”; it's her first time since 7 February. Around 2 PM, a volunteer from Switzerland spends 10 to 15 minutes looking over the suspect's website: it appears that he is here to brainstorm how to falsely report this website as plagiarized. It appears that, by today, the Russians and their allies have already exhausted all the cards they have accumulated since 17 February – they are about to be convicted – and that the SS women have got a hint of it (“the Russians have failed to win again”). After they have spent the whole day brainstorming how to prove that the suspect has plagiarized, they seem to be taking a break from 5 PM onward. Perhaps to conference face to face. They resume operation after 11 PM. They focus on the suspect's art gallery, especially Oliver's painting and the suspect's portrait of Shizuka. They are again asking Ms Kudo to find more reasons to complain about the suspect's website.

On the morning of 26 February, the suspect would be doing canvassing with other Greens in Chinatown (for Kenneth's campaign). One of the participants, Steve, looks so much like a Secret Service agent. This causes the suspect to continue to assume erroneously that both the SS women and the Secret Service have linked up with the Green Party. Afterwards, he attends French in Mind meetup. When he returns to Elysee, he has a short chat with Daniel.

As for the SS women's operation: this morning, they are still brainstorming how to help the Russians “revive” the ICJ trial. They resort to their usual tactic: asking Microsoft to remove the suspect's website from Bing's search result, which will be a favorable evidence for the Russian side. 10:48 AM, a volunteer from the University of Auckland looks up TL-VI-34. This might be brainstorming. Then, 11:19 AM, the SS women are already talking to their “buddy” in Microsoft. They ask Microsoft to remove “Suffering Woman” from Bing's search results on the ground of harassment of women. But of course Microsoft, already warned about these women, wouldn't comply. The SS women then brainstorm more. Then, 6:27 PM, a volunteer from the Philippines:

On 9 PM, their volunteer from New Orleans looks up “Summary 2016”. Probably brainstorming. Probably false reports to other search engines companies (Google, My Search). If any company accepts the complaint, it would be evidence to “revive” the ICJ trial. As for the rest, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to brainstorm how to falsely report the suspect for plagiarism.

On 27 February, the suspect would move into his new room. As for the SS women, they will again spend the whole day brainstorming how to successfully report the suspect for plagiarism. In other words, they are spending the whole day brainstorming how to “revive” the ICJ trial for Russia's sake. 6:29 AM, the New Orleans volunteer looks up “Summary 2016” again. He's brainstorming or revising his complaint from yesterday. 3:25 PM, a volunteer from Japan looks up “01_29_47.pdf”. 5:37 PM, another volunteer from North Dakota looks up “How I have-73”. On 10:24 PM, he comes again. These are also efforts to brainstorm (how to falsely report the suspect for being insane and harassing women.) On 12:50 AM, a volunteer from Germany copies saxonwarrior.jpg onto his Word document, indicating that the women have decided again to forge evidence in order to convince the TSA to reconsider their decision. Then, 1:16 AM, the SS women instruct one of their computer hackers from Romania to compile an index of the suspect's website which includes recordings from Karin's meetups and other recordings from late 2008. The SS women are evidently going to use this index to remind the TSA BDOs that they must reconsider their decision because the women's “victim confidentiality” must be respected. Then, significantly, Angelica herself seems to have visited the suspect's website between 2 AM and 4 AM – the women are most likely in contact with TSA's BDOs tonight and the Queen thinks that she must do the work herself in order to achieve effects.

28 February is a very quiet day for the suspect. As for the SS women, after they have filed their appeal with the TSA this morning, they spend the whole day mobilizing volunteers to send in more testimonies about the suspect's plagiarism. It's not clear, however, whether the appeal they filed this morning really could temporarily save the Russian side from conviction.
