The third International Court of Justice trial over the suspect XIII

1 – 31 March, 2017

The following summarizes the reconstruction of the Secret Society women's operation against the suspect and his website and the associated International Court of Justice trial from 1 to 31 March, 2017.

The names of persons follow the convention established in the previous chapters. The Secret Society women consist of (as of March, 2017): Karin (the German Lady, K), Angelica (Angelina, G), Kiersten (J), SDW (Maura, M), and Dr P (Petterson). For brevity's sake, the “Secret Society women” shall continue to be referred to simply as the “SS women” in the following narrative.

The most significant development during this period is the probable involvement of Professor N. Fraser in the affair with the Secret Society women. The Secret Society women are probably trying to contact her on 26 March. It's not clear whether Professor Fraser would feel she has the time for this kind of thing. It's not clear also what has happened with the Baltimore Lawyer. Since the Trump team has withdrawn their complaint in January 2017, the Baltimore Lawyer's job is done by then. But it's possible that the CIA has decided to recruit her as their mole inside the SS women's organization. In which case she would remain involved.

Now, another tally is in order. By November 2017, Angelica should have spent approximately 15,000 hours since January 2013 going after the suspect and his website. As for Kiersten, Dr P, SDW, and Dr P, from 6,000 to 10,000 hours in the past five years. By November 2017, the Secret Society women would have filed more than 35,000 complaints to various agencies and authorities about the suspect's website, of which 30,000 are to accuse him of plagiarism.

ERRATA

(1) We must return to the “optimistic scenario” regarding the relationship of the current ICJ trial to the previous (first) ICJ trial and consider the thorny question as to whether there has indeed been replacement of evidences from that previous ICJ trial. This would in fact be what is going on if the “optimistic scenario” is correct. The previous ICJ trial both exists and does not exist. The original formula to protect the Russians from conspiracy with the suspect, “both exist and does not exist”, has been transferred onto the entire previous ICJ case. There is replacement of evidences from the previous ICJ trial in the Macrosphere, but, because everybody here is only Microspherian (the suspect, the SS women, General Petraeus, the Russians, and everybody else), nobody sees any such thing. There is no replacement of evidences in the Microsphere. The previous ICJ trial has been reactivated in the Macrosphere, but non-existent in the Microsphere.

(2) The Russians were so aggressive last year – aggressively trying to prove that Homeland Security's false profile of the suspect is correct even though they knew it was false and were confronted with the obvious fact that the CIA could easily obstruct their effort – because, when they saw that there was a filter “justice” installed on the computer inside the control center which would restore justice whenever somebody used the computer to commit injustice, they were sure that, since they had been victims of American aggression, they would in the end win this current ICJ trial using the control center – the computer would make sure they be compensated for the injustice they had suffered in the past three decades if they would just pursue hard enough. They must be quite surprised, first in August, 2016, when they didn't win, and then in late December, 2016, when they realized they were actually losing – just as the suspect was. Things simply didn't turn out to be what they had expected. Only gradually, in the coming months, would they realize that the “justice” which the “filter” enforces is not necessarily their notion of “justice” (“victim justice”) but BOL's notion.¹

General Petraeus has probably also suffered this same problem. It must be General Petraeus who had made the decision, in September 2016, for the CIA to countersue Russia in order to protect his Syrian project. The CIA might have briefed him on the control center. “There is this 'filter' installed on the computer...” He probably thought that, since Pax Americana is a great thing and Bilderberg's program (which he was implementing, under Henry Kravis' tutelage, when he decided to pursue his Syrian project) is good for the world, the filter would eventually enable him to win. The “injustice” it had fixed concerned merely Homeland Security CO chief. (Namely, mentally retarded Hispanics should not be allowed to guard America's national security.) Only gradually would General Petraeus realize his notion of “justice” and “good” (“American exceptionalism”) also does not coincide with the notion which runs the “filter”.

We must wonder whether the Russians have discussed this matter about the control center with the Trump campaign in July last year. Carter Page was speaking at New Economic School in Moscow on 6 July, whereas the Russians were alerting the Trump team on 9 July about the suspect's upcoming trip to New York. By November, 2017, Page would be forced to admit that he had met with the deputy prime minister of Russia (presumably Dmitry

1 The Russians were at first thinking in a straightforward fashion: if a victim is harmed, he should be compensated with benefits equal to the harm. They didn't take into account the question: when the victim is indeed compensated with such benefits as are equal to the harm, what good would this bring to the world? This is the essential question which BOL poses in her version of justice.

Kozak) during his July 2016 trip. Perhaps Kozak had explained to Page: “There is this 'filter' inside the computer in the control center... We can eventually win this trial, which means you will be elected... You will just have to affirm Homeland Security's information is correct... The 'filter' should enable you to succeed...” The CNN would report in September, 2017,² that FBI's counter-intelligence unit first noticed unusual contacts between Russian intelligence operatives and the Trump team in July 2016. It is probably during these contacts that the Russians shared with the Trump team their plan to win this ICJ trial using the control center. Alarmed by the development, the US Establishment then had the FBI obtain a FISA authorization to wiretap Manafort in early August 2016 – since the Secret Society women were probably talking to Manafort or Manafort's assistants during this time. It is then the FBI which was wiretapping the Secret Society women, part of the intercepts the CIA would submit as evidences to the ICJ on 15 September, 2016, to initiate US counter-suit against Russia.

KEY EPISODES

- 3 March: the TSA rejects all appeals from the SS women. The case is closed!
- 5 March: the SS women recruit the Murakami girls. The Murakami girls go to a law enforcement agency in Russia (“Sledkom”) to open a case about the suspect's cyberstalking of them. Thanks to Sledkom's action, the ICJ judgment convicting Russia and its allies is temporarily suspended.
- 6 March: the SS women begin submitting testimonies to Sledkom.
- 10 March: Turkey begins compensating Russia after it has lost in a “second ICJ trial”.
- 11 March: the SS women recruit Marie to join Murakami girls' complaint.
- 12 March: the SS women seem to be reporting on the suspect's movement at the Green Party's rally.
- 13 March: Turkey breaks off relationship with the Netherlands.
- 14 March: the SS women are disappointed that their case with Sledkom has not succeeded.
- 18 March: the SS women recruit Shizuka to join Murakami girls' complaint.
- 20 March: the SS women recruit Eva to join Murakami girls' complaint.
- 23 March: the SS women recruit Robin to join Murakami girls' complaint.
- 24 March: the SS women recruit Gaurav to join Murakami girls' complaint.
- 25 March: the SS women are mystified why their case with Sledkom is not succeeding.
- 26 March: the SS women concentrate on reporting on behalf of Shizuka.
- 29 March: the SS women are mystified again why law enforcement has made no move.

March, 2017

For 1 March, the suspect will again feel irritated for the whole day. As for the SS women,

The operation has lasted approximately 12 minutes. Are the SS women asking him to make a special report to the TSA in order to revive their case? For the rest of the day, the SS women continue to mobilize volunteers to look up images and chapters on the suspect's website (decoys, plagiarism). Then, 5:37 PM, the SS women instruct the Eircom hacker (Dublin Institute of Technology) to compile another index: saxonwarrior.jpg, /, thermex2.html, gallery.html, acad.html, links.html, 1.html. 6:51 PM, the same indexing again. This index is evidently to prove that plagiarized material is indeed found on the suspect's website (i.e. saxonwarrior.jpg). Then, 7:30 PM, a volunteer from Cavite City, Philippines, looks up the front page of Secret History:

What is this about? Part of the special report to the TSA?

It's now 2 March, a Thursday. 4:42 AM, a volunteer from Brussels looks up "Kulturindustrie". The SS women will for the whole day continue to send volunteers to look up images on the suspect's website (decoys, plagiarism). This afternoon, on 3:17 PM, the suspect is talking to Wes on the phone.

Conversation with Wes (02/03/2017):

The suspect is connected with Wes from 4:28:00 onward. (1) The suspect is upset that half of his savings has gone into paying rent. He doesn't like his new room. (2) The SS women are still trying to ban his website. Angelica has visited his website again. (3) He will soon attend Zizek's lecture. Alan Badiou, Ernst Bloch, Gilles Deleuze. Baudrillard. The biography of J. S. Mill. (4) How to understand the current corruption: old problems are getting worse; it's not new problems. (5) The SS women have never gone inside the control center. All this expectation about their going inside the control center is due to Wes' oracle in January last year. It should be the same Homeland Security CO chief who is inside the control center. (6) Canvassing with the Greens over the weekend. Steve looked like a Secret Service agent. The suspect wrongly assumes that the SS women were busy with the Greens. (7) John Sallis and Dr G. (8) Wes couldn't go to the conference in Chicago for financial reason. (9) A possible scenario about the current ICJ trial: his speculation on BOL is correct. Both he and Wes might have something significant to do within her plan. Reporters will one day come to Wes asking him about his oracles. The cult. De-powerment of the masses, lowering people's self-esteem. Perhaps Hillary Clinton is one of the few people who know that the previous ICJ trial has never ended. But she didn't know that BOL's sustainable civilization program is anti-feminist. (The suspect is certainly mistaken here again. Hillary doesn't know shit!) (10) The control center is inactive again since this week. The suspect doesn't know that this is because Russia has been convicted! (11) The suspect has second thought about the oracle "Keep the dream alive". (12) Zizek's and Fraser's critique of leftist politics and feminism. (13) The suspect has lost interest in Trump and the Mormon church. (14) Valerie Solanas, Joseph Smith, and SDW. The American Experience episode on Andy Warhol. (15) The psychological factor is not named in analysis of political orientations. (16) Why Wes prefers Hillary Clinton. (17) The Cultural Code. Trump symbolizes "movement". Interference on 5:30:00! Yesterday the SS women seem to be passing a secret message to the suspect, "Redemption ICJ".

Certainly, all the wrong scenarios which the suspect has spoken of – Steve as a Secret Service agent, Hillary Clinton's knowledge – could have become evidence in Russia's favor, but, at this point, it's not clear whether it matters anymore. Tonight, the suspect will attend Zizek's lecture together with Daniel in UCLA. Note that, on 9:18 PM, a volunteer from Jamaica, New York, is instructed to find "Old Testament" on the side panel of the suspect's Table of Contents. The SS women have thus spent another whole day trying to prove that the suspect has plagiarized. Something strange: on 9:27 PM, Twitter notifies the suspect that somebody is trying to log into his Twitter account. This seems to indicate that, as the SS women canvas the Internet looking for the suspect's traces – desperate to save Russia's case – they find this Twitter account which seems to belong to the suspect. They try to log in to see what happens – hence Twitter's alert. (The suspect has so far not posted anything on his Twitter.) 1:58 AM, another visit to germaninvasion.html (supporting evidence that saxonwarrior.jpg is plagiarized material found on the suspect's website).

On 3 March, 5:30 PM, the suspect meets with the Missionary Sisters in the Visitors' Center. Today's topic is tithing. Nothing unusual. As for the SS women, something seems to have happened. While they continue to send volunteers to look up images on the suspect's website throughout the morning, their effort slows down after 2 PM, and, after 8 PM, they are completely absent. It's perhaps the case that the TSA has replied them in the afternoon informing them that the agency will not change their decision. The suspect shall remain removed from all watchlists. The SS women thus have to conference tonight for solutions. (Homeland Security CO chief is probably talking to them as well.)

Now, 4 March, a Saturday. The suspect would spend the whole morning and afternoon canvassing the Chinatown area with his fellow Greens. Steve is also there. As for the SS women, they will continue to send volunteers to look up images on the suspect's website. (Decoys?) 6:43 PM, a volunteer from Brooklyn looks up "Prelude-17D". 6:50 PM, a volunteer from Quebec looks up the PP post. 8:47 PM, a volunteer from Bangkok looks up "Time Line VIII-17B". The SS women might simply be explaining the "problem" to their volunteers. Soon after midnight, the suspect posts the video of Murakami's 2014 concert on his Facebook. 3:15 AM, the SS women seem to be checking over the suspect's Facebook looking for this new post. Something is up.

On 5 March, a Sunday, the suspect is at the Mormon church in the morning and chats with Daniel in Elysee in the afternoon. As for the SS women, they continue to mobilize volunteers throughout the whole day to look up images on the suspect's website. 6:06 AM, they check the suspect's Facebook again. 7:53 AM, again. 8:21 AM, again. 10:20 AM, the Hacienda Heights volunteer (from 3 January and 22 and 20 December) comes to look up the PP post for the fourth time. 10:25 AM, a very special visit: 172.91.64.15, social.res.rr.com, Los Angeles.

We have to wonder whether this might be Glenn Chen (the Long Keng volunteer) or his associate. He, along with the volunteers before him, would have seen the suspect's latest post (Murakami's 2014 concert). 12:01 PM, Facebook-checking again. 2:19 PM, Facebook-checking again. Six volunteers in total have checked out the Murakami posting – are the SS women contemplating whether to recruit the Murakami girls to their campaign? Indeed! At the same time, a volunteer from the Netherlands looks up the suspect's portrait of Kristin. The SS women are evidently spending the whole day implementing a new plan to “save Russia” and its allies in the ICJ using the suspect's posting of the Murakami concert.

We should assume that, since the TSA has rejected the SS women's appeal two days ago, the Russians have come up with this new idea of getting the women to complain to a Russian law enforcement agency instead which they can easily manipulate. And so, late last night, they controlled the suspect to post Murakami's video on his Facebook and then, today, ordered the SS women's gang to make a big fuss about it and contact the Murakami girls. The Murkami girls would then be instructed by the Russian intelligence SVR to receive Homeland Security's warning about the suspect and go to the police to file a report about their becoming the object of this terrifying stalker's obsession. We should assume that Kristin has requested to join in as well (although it's most likely the case that she is working as US law enforcement's mole inside the SS women's operations). Although the Russian police is so corrupt that, under normal circumstances, they could not possibly be expected to investigate a made-up case of cyberstalking – especially when the stalker is all the way in America – the Russian intelligence would, in this case, instruct the police officers to take Murakami girls' claim very seriously since Russia's national security is at stake. As the Russian police begins their investigation, their conclusion (that the SS women are telling the truth!) can then be submitted to the ICJ as evidence to persuade the judges to temporarily suspend Russia's (and its allies') conviction. The only question is: which Russian police is now investigating the suspect's cyberstalking of the Murakami girls? Presumably "Sledkom", or the Investigative Committee of the Russian Federation, Russia's federal police force.

On 6 March, hearing begins officially in ICJ in the case in which Ukraine accuses Russia of supporting terrorists in east Ukraine. As for the suspect, he will today pick up his new Taiwanese passport from the Taiwanese consulate. As for SDW, between 5 PM last night and 9 PM tonight, she will post a new post on her blog: "Hundreds of Marines investigated for sharing photos of naked colleagues (on Facebook)". This is her first post since 24 February. Now that the Russian police is involved, she wants to produce some evidence for them of the suspect's cyberstalking of her. This would however have to be a complicated process: since the suspect and the SS women are all located in the US, Sledkom will have to contact the Interpol, and the Interpol will have to work with a US law enforcement agency, presumably an investigative unit inside LAPD. Could it be the TMU again? SDW is then waiting for LAPD's surveillance to pick up the suspect's cyberstalking of her. This of course ensures that the Murakami girls' complaint with Sledkom will never go anywhere. The Russians don't really mind, since they are merely trying to buy time while waiting for the suspect to reconstruct up to what happened last September.

Now that a new case is opened, the SS women proceed to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's website. 2:52 PM, a volunteer from Salem, New Hampshire, looks up "Kulturindustrie" and reports to Sledkom saying the suspect is dangerous because, although he is severely delusional, he doesn't believe he is really sick (Dr P's favorite argument). 2:59 PM, a volunteer looks up the PP post while in Birmingham public library (Alabama) and reports to Sledkom that he sees the suspect expressing bizarre delusions about his women victims on the PP forum. Then, 3:11 PM, the same guy from yesterday comes again (Glenn Chen?)

He is evidently (falsely) reporting to Sledkom saying the suspect has threatened to harm the Murakami girls along with the SS women. Then, 7:20 PM, another volunteer visits the suspect's Facebook – probably to confirm Glenn's false report earlier. 9:20 PM, another visit to the suspect's Facebook: another confirmation? In other words, the SS women are trying to impress on Sledkom investigators that the suspect, due to severe mental illness, is extremely dangerous and can be expected to seriously hurt the Murakami girls even though he is all the way in America. Then, 9:34 PM, the SS women order a round of indexing (192.99.66.206, OVH, Montreal): “Suffering Woman” and all the index pages, including TranslatorCV.html. Evidently, SDW is insisting on reporting to Sledkom how the suspect has threatened her (“Suffering Woman”) on his website, along with faking translation service which proves that he is not really who he is but his twin brother. (The “David Chin” document.) Then, between 12 AM and 4 AM, Angelica herself appears to have visited the suspect's website. She also wants to personally report to Sledkom saying the suspect keeps this terrifying website on which he describes his intention to hurt her. Sledkom, under order from above, accepts all these testimonies on face value respecting the women victims' “confidentiality”. Meanwhile, however, LAPD and Interpol are getting ready to share with Sledkom the evidences they are gathering demonstrating that these women are entirely making things up.

On the early morning of 7 March, there is the routine Open Link Profiler indexing. 5:53 AM, the Salem volunteer from yesterday looks up “Kulturindustrie” again. Why does he have to offer the same testimony twice? Is it because the law enforcement officers on the American side are trying to catch him lying? As for the rest of the day, the SS women will mobilize many volunteers (including many students) to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism to Sledkom. While yesterday the SS women concentrated on reporting the suspect for being dangerous to other people due to severe mental illness, today they want to establish that he plagiarizes. Note that, 3 PM or so, Kiersten, after going voting, tweets about it. Because the Russian law enforcement is now validating her status as a “victim” of “violence against women”, she is quite excited. She wants to show off to her audience how she's a liberal woman championing the cause of the oppressed, appreciating the sacred nature, and very much engaged in public affairs. As for the suspect, this afternoon, when he is in Elysee, Elliot tells him that he will join the Secret Society women for his sake. Bullshit! After midnight, the suspect will have finished and uploaded “Prelude G-3H”. 2:11 AM, he posts – probably being remotely controlled by the control center to do so – another of Murakami's videos, “Telegram”, on his Facebook (along with a France 24 emission on Journée de la femme). Then, it seems that, between 2 AM and 4 AM, Angelica has visited the suspect's website again. Why? Is it because the American side now wants her to offer her testimony about the suspect's threat against her once again in order to catch her lying?

On 8 March, the SS women will continue to mobilize their volunteers to submit false testimonies about the suspect's plagiarism. There are however also other kinds of activities today. 8:16 AM, a volunteer from Santa Clara, California, looks up “Prelude E-4E”. Are the SS women reporting to Sledkom about how the suspect is even threatening Donald Trump? This is evidently a sting operation – since the Trump administration, having changed side, would now report to Sledkom behind the SS women's back informing them that these women are a bunch of pathological liars. 8:45 AM, the SS women's volunteer checks up on the suspect's Facebook. He would have discovered that the suspect has posted a second Murakami video. Yahoo! The whole gang would again notify Sledkom that the Murakami girls are under tremendous threat as the suspect continues to develop his obsession about them. 9:45 AM, another volunteer from Izmir, Turkey, looks up “TL-02-14”. Again, to report to Sledkom that the suspect suffers this delusion about his women victims' filing false stalking claims against him with the TMU back in 2014. Probably another trap: since the TMU would then confirm for the Sledkom investigators that the suspect is telling the truth! Then, 9:55 AM, a very strange visit (Opera Mini):

107.167.103.129 - - [08/Mar/2017:10:55:49 -0700] "GET /timelinepartVI/timelinepartVI-34.pdf HTTP/1.1" 200 867403 "http://www.google.com/search?q=zenmate+settings+for+iPhone+vodacom&client=ms-opera-mini-android&channel=new&hl=en&sa=X&as_q=&nfpr=&spell=1&ved=0ahUKEwid7PDRvMfSAhUB6GMKHQ8mAzkQvwUICg" "Opera/9.80 (Android; Opera Mini/22.0.2254/58.167; U; en) Presto/2.12.423 Version/12.16"

It seems that this volunteer is charged with falsely reporting to Sledkom how the suspect keeps malware on his website. The Russians need these reports in the ICJ to prolong their life there. 6:28 PM, the SS women's volunteer checks up on the suspect's Facebook again. When he sees the posting “Journée de la femme”, he would also notice the suspect's complaint: “If you are a man, you are 100 times more likely to work in the garbage disposal business than if you are a woman” and “60% of the poor in US are women. Black women? White women?” He would certainly report to Sledkom saying that the suspect is making hate speech against women on his Facebook. Then, amidst the excitement, 7:19 PM, the Slidell volunteer comes to check up on the PP post. (She was last here on 26 January).

Another report to Sledkom that the suspect threatens to harm the SS women due to suffering bizarre delusion about their going after him. 8:23 PM, a volunteer checks the suspect's Facebook for the third time today.

On 9 March, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism. 9:27 AM, a volunteer from Zapopan, Mexico, looks up “Cheney Plan” (Introduction). 10:45 AM, a volunteer from Lahore, Pakistan, looks up TL-VIII.

The search term is so strange that it is evidently another false report about the suspect's computer-hacking via his website. 12:34 PM, a volunteer from UC Santa Cruz looks up “sci.pdf”. Another false report about the suspect's hate speech against white women (comparing white women to chimpanzees). 2:46 PM, the SS women's gang is looking up the suspect's Facebook again – they would see the new post about Pussy Riot (“Pussy-Riot Aktivistin zum Frauentag”) in addition to Murakami's Telegram, “Journée de la femme”, and Murakami's 2014 concert. Would the Russian intelligence now instruct the Pussy Riot girls to add themselves to Murakami's complaint with Sledkom? Probably not. The Pussy Riot girls would be busy with other things; some of them would even escape Russia soon. 2:28 PM, another false report about the suspect's computer-hacking. This is very important, since it's otherwise not possible for the suspect to become any sort of danger to the Murakami girls when he is all the way in America! Then, 2:52 PM, the suspect is able to talk to Wes on the phone.

Conversation with Wes (09/03/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 2:57:00. (1) The SS women have been working very hard. Angelica has visited. There is currently the replacement of evidences within this ICJ trial as well insofar as it has become part of the previous ICJ trial. If Russia loses or withdraws, it would be evidence for the previous ICJ trial, and the conspirators from the previous ICJ trial would permanently fall under Macrospherians' command. That's why the US Establishment has agreed to reactivate the previous ICJ trial in order to resolve the current ICJ trial. What's going on in Turkey right now might have something to do with the previous ICJ trial. All these are wrong scenarios, and the Russians would use these as evidences of the suspect's schizophrenia. (2) Zizek's lecture from last week. The role played by enjoyment (jouissance) in political orientations. Engleton's obsession with Russian moles. Somebody inside the CIA has leaked the latest news piece about the Agency. (Probably another wrong scenario.) (3) Sleep deprivation. The suspect is feeling hyper. (4) How the suspect can address his grievance, his having no right to know what crime he has committed. Also his not having free-will. (5) The suspect is now less engaged in the Mormon church. (6) The suspect's books in Wes' basement. (7) Badiou, Fraser. (8) How did the SS women gain access to their conversation? (9) The difference between the resistance against global capitalism on the political left and that on the political right. (10) The suspect's recent involvement with the Green Party. The SS women's connection with the Green Party. It all looks like the replacement of evidence. Kenneth is the mere image of Marion. This is another wrong scenario which the Russians can use as evidence of the suspect's schizophrenia. (11) The attractive women at the Mormon church. (12) Polygamy in a Mormon fundamentalist branch. Why Mormons attract the suspect. (13) If FN loses, they can still come to power, because the reversal of the terrorist conspiracy would mean their coming to power to benefit the US (France will remain US ally). Again, the suspect is coming close to the truth – which will save Russia – but not close enough: not yet. Le Pen vs Macron. Is there replacement of evidences here also? (14) Wes will teach Plato in his class at Hudson Valley College. (15) Jacqueline's intrigue against Michael and Stacy.

4:07 PM, a volunteer from Portland, Oregon, looks up soft.pdf. Probably a continuation of the visit from 6 March: a false report about the suspect's intention to harm the SS women. But it could also be because the suspect has mentioned several other Russian pop-music girls in this document! 4 AM, Lingual Consultancy sends the suspect a job offer via ProZ (Delhi, India). Evidently, the SS women want new evidence to confirm the veracity of the “David Chin document”. They especially want to establish the suspect's status as a computer expert.

Amazingly, on 4:29 AM, 10 March, Youtube sends the suspect a notice: the Russian movie “Dark World” which the suspect has kept on his Youtube channel since 2014 is blocked in Austria, Germany, Luxembourg, and Switzerland. Evidently, the SS women and their Russian “co-victims” have also been rummaging through the suspect's Youtube channel looking for something to complain about. They saw “Dark World”, wanted to complain about the suspect's violation of intellectual property laws, but couldn't quite persuade Youtube to ban the suspect – probably because the CIA and those on the American side are instructing Youtube not to do so. When the suspect arrives in Asian Pacific, the hip Chinese guy is very rude to him – “You are not part of Wellness” – and then falsely accuses him of being aggressive. The suspect is very upset about it. One has to wonder – given that the Russian law enforcement has started a new round of debate with US agencies about the suspect – whether the hip guy has been instructed by Homeland Security to so falsely accuse the suspect. The incident is at the very least programed from the control center – to enable the Russians to obtain a piece of evidence confirming that the suspect is indeed a physical danger to other people just as the SS women have claimed. When the suspect is in Elysee late afternoon, he chats with Daniel about Nick Land and the “subject” in Lacan.³ Then he goes to the Visitors' Center, waits a long time for the Missionary Sisters, and finally meets up with them on 8:30 PM.⁴ This time the Missionary Sisters want him to draw portraits! Apparently, the CIA and US law enforcement have also recruited the Sisters and instructed them to get the suspect to draw. The LAPD and Interpol would then share with Sledkom the new evidence proving that the SS women's claim about the suspect's lack of artistic talent is false. Toward the end, the suspect promises the Sisters that he will come to the concert on Sunday night.

As for the SS women, they continue to mobilize their volunteers around the world to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism. Then, 12:46 PM, a volunteer from Jonesboro, Georgia, makes this strange visit:

Is this a false report to Sledkom about the suspect's attempt to remotely stalk and harass these famous people using his magnificent computer skill? (At the very least, Geert's claim against the suspect last November needs to be re-validated.) Then, 4:41 PM, another volunteer checks up on the suspect Facebook – and he would have discovered that the suspect has posted something new again, his portrait of Marie! There are then no activities from the SS women on the suspect's website for the next four hours. What are they busy with? Evidently with recruiting Marie to join the whole gang's complaint process with Sledkom.

This strange news should be noted: Erdogan and Putin sign cooperation agreement today in Moscow covering over cooperation in Syria, nuclear and pipeline agreements, and bilateral trades. Note especially the agreed-upon cooperation between Turkish and Russian special forces in Syria. US general Joseph Dunford also meets with Turkish and Russian generals in Antalya to work out a more detailed plan. The strange development between Russia and Turkey – there is more to come – increasingly suggests that Russia has sued Turkey in a confidential case in the ICJ for the latter's support of ISIS and Al-Nusra in Syria – and won! Turkey is now convicted of supporting terrorists to harm Russia in violation of UN Resolution 1373 and must compensate Russia. This might be another reason why Ukraine has decided to sue Russia in an open case in the ICJ for Russia's support of “terrorists” in eastern Ukraine.

For the whole day of 11 March, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism to Sledkom. By noon, the suspect is at Elysee. He calls Derrick to inform him that he has decided not to go to the TI meeting tomorrow. Around 4:30 PM, a volunteer from Bulgaria makes an important false report about the suspect's theft of other people's artworks. The SS women are then busy with something from 6:30 PM to 9:30 PM. As for the suspect, past 6 PM, he chats with Daniel about “revolution”. Event, the process to truth. From midnight to 5 AM the next morning, there are surprisingly no activities from the SS women on the suspect's website. Perhaps they are busy with connecting Marie to the Murakami girls – not knowing that Marie is working as a US law enforcement mole inside their organization!

On the morning of 12 March, the suspect attends Sunday service at the Mormon church. Because, after the service, he has to wait a long time for Bishop John, he isn't able to volunteer at the Green Party rally. He arrives at the rally only after 4 PM. Jill Stein shows up soon afterwards. Note that Mariam takes a picture of him: is she instructed by law enforcement to do so? Later, when the suspect wants to take pictures together with Jill Stein, she hesitates. The suspect is thus convinced that the SS women have connected up with her and fed her with slanders about him. At night, he would re-post the video of the Green Party rally today on his Facebook.

As for the SS women, they of course continue for the whole day today to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism. 9:41 AM, a volunteer from

Tampa, Florida, looks up “Cheney Plan”. She has probably been instructed to feed Sledkom with the story which the SS women have concocted about this essay the summer last year. 10:37 AM, the SS women order a round of indexing of all the links on the front page of the suspect's website. This will be submitted to Sledkom: “This is the terrorist website....” 12:20 PM, an associate of the earlier Tampa volunteer also looks up “Cheney Plan”, evidently to corroborate the earlier testimony. Finally, it appears that, after midnight, Angelica has again visited the suspect's website. She apparently has to report to either Sledkom or law enforcement on the American side. There is a possibility that, this time, the SS women have really connected up with the Green Party and that Angelica is, along with Dr P and so on, here offering her expert testimony to Jill Stein's manager.⁵

Important happening in the international domain on 13 March. Turkey breaks off relationship with Netherlands today. We can be confident that, because Turkey has lost to Russia in a second ICJ trial over terrorism, it now has to play out Russia's program, which consists in gradually severing ties with the West in order to integrate better into Russia's sphere of influence.

As for the SS women, they continue for the whole day today to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism. 7:43 AM, another Eircom (it seems) indexing of all the index pages of the suspect's website. Again on 8:45 AM. 6:40 PM, Karin sends out an email informing everyone that she has founded a new meetup, “Cultural Diversity”. It's very likely that she does so only in order to lure the suspect to infiltrate the group. She wants, in other words, law enforcement surveillance to intercept the suspect cyberstalking her – now that Russian law enforcement is involved, she is full of hopes. But the suspect will never bother to join her new group! 6:53 PM, a volunteer from Virginia Beach, Virginia, looks up the suspect's portrait of Geert. Geert's party seems to be part of the new case opened against the suspect with Sledkom.

On 14 March, some time early in the day, Kiersten tweets something mysterious: “Tomorrow is the Ides of March: sic semper tyrannis”. Somehow she is, along with the rest of the SS women, under the impression that their case with Sledkom in the past 8 days has been very successful – thanks to these Russians, the International Court of Justice is about to issue a judgment declaring them “victims” of the suspect's terrorism. They are apparently unaware that LAPD and the Interpol are again working with the CIA to 5 Later on, on 12 November, Kenneth and a fellow Green, Reed, would virtually admit to the suspect that the SS women have been in contact with them, and so with Stein, which means that, perhaps, tonight is indeed the SS women's first contact with the Green Party. What is noteworthy is that the SS women are in the habit of warning the Greens that the suspect is dangerous because he likes to record his conversations with people and then put the recordings on his website, thus violating people's privacy. The women of course would not explain, because they actually don't really understand, the real reason why the suspect records his conversation with people and why he puts many, but not all, of the recordings on his website: because there is always operation on him, from the governments or from the SS women themselves, and because his recordings are evidences from which he reconstructs the course of the ICJ trial.

undermine their case behind their back. As for the suspect, he has his interview at the Deseret Industries in the afternoon. He fails it, and, upset, he performs MSGDP. Dr P would soon report this to both US law enforcement and Sledkom. When, 6 PM, the suspect meets with Daniel in Elysee, they talk about how to classify various political orientations. The suspect also talks to a pollster tonight about raising construction workers' wages.

As for the SS women's operation on the suspect's website today: 5:52 AM, there is Datenbank indexing. The indexing is no different from Open Link Profiler's, i.e. it indexes everything except PDF documents. 10:24 AM, the SS women send somebody to check the suspect's Facebook. It appears to be Glenn Chen again (or the Long Keng volunteer).

Probably a complaint on Marie's behalf. The SS women then continue to mobilize their volunteers to look up images and chapters on the suspect's website. Some are false reports, but others are probably just decoys. Then, 5:26 PM, it's the Long Keng volunteer: Rackspace, Hong Kong.

It seems to be a status check. It appears that, just like Kiersten (“sic semper tyrannis”), the SS women are really expecting American law enforcement to ban the suspect's website today, completely unaware of how both LAPD and the Interpol have already used moles (Marie and Kristin) to compromised their case with the Russian law enforcement behind their back. The SS women must be terribly disappointed and mystified at the same time. They thus resume mobilizing their volunteers to brainstorm for solutions. 2:30 PM, a volunteer from Switzerland is checking again the suspect's traces on Charles Krueger's website. 3:35 PM, Geert's portrait. (Is Geert's team working as a mole inside the SS women's organization?) 7:37 PM, the PP post. Around 10 PM, a volunteer from Carmichael, California, looks up “Time Line-02-14”. 5:09 AM, it's Cyveillance's regular indexing.

On early morning of 16 March, a Thursday, the SS women's volunteer looks up suspect's portraits of Shizuka and his “Marine essay”. Then, 8:27 AM, the Long Keng volunteer calls up the pages he visited yesterday from his browser: thermex2.html and “Cheney Plan” (Rackspace Hosting, Hong Kong):

It seems that the SS women are still hoping that they have won with the help of Russian law enforcement. But no. Then, 12:31 PM, their volunteer looks up the suspect's portrait of Geert. No, nothing is banned. 12:53 PM, the routine Open Link Profiler indexing. Then, on 2:26 PM, the suspect has a phone conversation with Wes outside Chrysalis.

Conversation with Wes (16/03/2107)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 6:00. (1) The suspect believes that the SS women were observing the suspect from surveillance when he was at the rally on Sunday. All because Jill Stein showed up. Maybe they told the Green Party that they could get an ICJ judgment in their favor if they sacrificed the suspect. The SS women were disappointed that his website was not banned. Again, it's not entirely clear whether the SS women are really first connected up with the Green Party the past Sunday. If they are, Stein would certainly receive a warning about these women from the Secret Service and wouldn't entertain any thought about obtaining an ICJ judgment in her party's favor. (2) The suspect expresses doubt about the Mormon church. He didn't get the job at Deseret Industries because of his criminal history. Maybe he is not the right person for the church. (3) His theory is that the CIA has gained an upperhand, that FN is going to lose, but that the SS women believe they are winning. The former of the scenarios is correct. It's not however enough for the Russians to declare a conspiracy against them; it has thus only motivated them to buy more time. (4) The election in Netherlands: Geert has lost. It would seem that Geert's party has also joined the SS women's campaign. Marine will not win the election next month. All correct! (5) Russians' losing has become evidence in the previous ICJ trial, so that their victory in the previous ICJ trial is secure. Wrong! Turkey is moving away from Europe right now. How the Macrospherians will divide the "spoils" from the previous ICJ trial: France, Turkey, and Italy. All wrong! (6) Deleuze's Capitalism and Schizophrenia. A revolution to change people's life-style. He will not be able to implement his program unless he has BOL's help. Sure! Naomi Kleins' new book. Badiou. (7) A fake website which the SS women have created (the fake lawrencechin2011.com). There is a group of people working full time to destroy his work. Somebody has copied his entire Thermodynamic Interpretation of History Table of Content and put it on his blog. He is looking more and more like Joseph Smith; Smith was also accused of plagiarism. What to do about these fake websites which the SS women have created to attribute to him? How is he going to explain this to people in the future? (8) Hannah Arendt's On Revolution. If people don't remember why the revolution was fought, then the revolution has failed. Arendt's The Human Condition. The suspect hangs up on 52:00.

6:30 PM or so, the SS women check the suspect's Facebook again. Marie's portrait is also still there. 7:47 PM, a volunteer from Stevenson Ranch, California, receives the link to TL-02-14.⁶ Then, past midnight, the SS women order another round of MegaIndex indexing in preparation for a new round of operation. All along they continue to send volunteers to look up images on the suspect's website as decoys.

On 17 March, the suspect almost accepts a job of ghost writing. By night however, he will change his mind and decline the job. He again spends the afternoon in Elysee chatting with Daniel⁷ and the night in Visitors' Center with the Missionary Sisters.⁸ Tonight the Sisters ask the suspect to draw another portrait of Sister Lopez. Perhaps they are instructed by the US agencies to trick the suspect into demonstrating again his artistic skill. But the suspect is having difficulty tonight. He continually complains about his bad decision in getting an apartment beyond his means (he'd rather be homeless now in order to save money), and Sister MLDNDO scolds him for his bad attitude. They then watch the movie about the "disabled stone mason". As for the SS women's operation today: 8 AM or so, Yandex's strange indexing of the suspect's website. (All the images and links on 1.htm.) It seems that, because nothing has happened, the SS women are trying to impress Sledkom, the Interpol, and American law enforcement with the same story again. Namely, Yandex's indexing is submitted as evidence of the suspect's violation of people's privacy on his website, which means that nobody is supposed to look at the website except for the "victims" themselves. The SS women then submit more false reports about the suspect's plagiarism and impersonation. 4:56 PM, a volunteer from Niagaras Falls looks up "Friends II". This seems to be the first time that they have even discovered this chapter. It could certainly furnish them with more evidences of the suspect's "delusions about his victims' going after him" as part of some "government conspiracy". 8:48 PM, they check up on his Facebook again. Perhaps to remind the various law enforcement agencies that Marie in Quebec is also complaining about it. Almost 11 PM, a volunteer in South Korea files a complaint on behalf of Shizuka. To add force to their case with Sledkom, the SS women are now recruiting Shizuka to Murakami girls' complaint. They are again unaware that Shizuka has also been working as a law enforcement mole inside their organization.

On 18 March, the SS women continue, for the whole day, to send volunteers to look up the suspect's images as a way to decoy him. Then, 4:48 PM, VeriSign indexing of the suspect's website: index pages but also redathena.html. Is this coming from US law enforcement?

Then, after midnight, the suspect posts three videos from Ms Martin on his Facebook: “Tous les garçons et les filles”, “Comme des enfants”, and “Place de la République”. Plus his painting of Robin. The SS women will be jubilant over this: more ammunition for them.

19 March, almost 5 AM, the SS women's volunteer from Yokohama, Japan, looks up the suspect's portrait of Shizuka again. Evidently the SS women are counting on Shizuka to make the decisive complaint – unaware that she is working as mole for the United States inside their organization. 8:30 AM or so, a volunteer from Jakarta makes another false report on behalf of Shizuka. 9:36 AM, a volunteer from Spain looks up soft.pdf – probably another complaint about the suspect's desire to hurt the SS women due to suffering severe delusions about their involvement in government conspiracies. 1:22 PM, another volunteer from Brazil makes a false complaint on behalf of Shizuka. As for the rest, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false complaints about the suspect's plagiarism.

On the early morning of 20 March, the suspect posts Professor Nancy Fraser's video (“Re-reading Polanyi”) on his Facebook. 6:32 AM, a volunteer from Argentina looks up the suspect's portrait of Eva. Are the SS women now asking Eva to add her complaint to Shizuka's in order to achieve the “breakthrough” that is needed? They of course are unaware that Eva is also working as a mole for US law enforcement inside their organization. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to mobilize other volunteers to falsely report on the suspect's plagiarism. 10:58 AM, they send a volunteer to search for “Prelude G-3H” with the search terms “SM-J120F room Maroc”. What is this about? This seems to be the first time that the SS women have discovered this document. The search term is so strange that it must be related to the Russians' attempt to discredit the CIA evidence of the suspect's genius in the ICJ. 11:06 AM, Lingual Consultancy sends another job offer to the suspect via ProZ. Is it related to the SS women's operation? They still need a confirmation that the “David Chin” document is the suspect's genuine confession? Then, 11:21 AM, Dorit sends a email to the suspect asking how well he did on TestDaf. Is this related to the SS women's operation? Then, attempting their breakthrough, the SS women, on 11:44 AM, send the Eircom volunteer to index the suspect's website's link structure to prove that plagiarism (in this case, glycolysis.jpg) is indeed found this website. They then seem to be busy in the afternoon until 5 PM – they are probably busy with connecting Eva with Sledkom. They have no idea that they are compromising their own case by connecting so many moles with Sledkom so that, when Sledkom has received so many reports from the supposed victims themselves that these American women are a bunch of frauds, they simply couldn't act on their superiors' instruction. 5:10 PM, the SS women send another volunteer to make a false complaint on behalf of Shizuka, then two more volunteers to testify that the suspect's bizarre delusions about his women victims on the PP post indicate that he poses tremendous danger to them. No use. Sledkom couldn't possibly persuade their American partners to act. Thus, 8:51 PM, the SS women submit another Panscient index of all the 2008 recordings and stolen artworks on the suspect's website in order to oblige everybody to respect their “victim confidentiality”. But of course, all in vain. The late archiving of the suspect's log in the next morning seems to suggest that, because Angelica is eager for a breakthrough, she has herself visited, and reported on, the suspect's website again after midnight.

Throughout 21 March, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to submit evidences of the suspect's violation of intellectual property laws (plagiarism and theft of other people's artworks). 8:38 AM, the SS women's volunteer makes another complaint on behalf of Shizuka. 2:11 PM, they submit another index documenting the suspect's theft of other people's artworks. As for the suspect: he would have, this afternoon, another chat with Daniel when he is in Elysee, this time about feminism. Then, between 5 PM and 6 PM, a volunteer from Berlin looks up “Prelude D-4K” and “Prelude E-4E”. It could be that he is talking to Interpol or Sledkom right at this moment testifying that the suspect has indeed expressed bizarre delusions about his involvement in government conspiracies and is therefore very dangerous to his women victims. Or he could be part of Trump administration's effort to compromise the SS women's case behind their back. By 12:11 AM, the suspect has posted several more messages on Facebook (Deutschland Funk's report on the investigation of the Trump-Russia connection). Merely 9 minutes later, the SS women have already got wind of the new posting and come to take a look. It seems that Angelica has again visited the suspect's website between midnight and 4 AM.

On 22 March, throughout the whole day, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism. This afternoon, when the suspect is in Santa Monica library, the Missionary Sisters call him. When he is in Elysee later, he has another chat with Daniel. Daniel tries to introduce him to Bernard Stiegler's work. Past 4 AM, the SS women look up the suspect's posting of his painting of Robin on his Facebook. It seems that they have decided to add Robin as well as Marie, Eva, Kristin, and Shizuka to the Murakami girls' complaint with Sledkom – unaware that Robin is also a US law enforcement mole. Robin, Marie, Eva, Kristin, and Shizuka are all secretly reporting to Sledkom that the SS women are a bunch of frauds and that the suspect has not harassed them at all, making it increasingly impossible for the Sledkom investigators to carry out SVR's instruction to respect these American women's “victim confidentiality” and validate their, and the Murakami girls', complaints.

Now, 23 March, a Thursday. 7:38 AM, a volunteer looks up “Prelude 17-D” with the search terms, “the role of English as an international language”. What is this about? SVR's attempt to discredit CIA's evidence that the suspect is not insane? For the rest of the day, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to report on the suspect's plagiarism and delusional expressions and impersonation in the PP posts. Then, 7:07 PM, a volunteer from Quito, Ecuador, is instructed to forge more evidence of the suspect's plagiarism.

October – November, 2017

Then, after midnight, there are virtually no activities on the suspect's website. The SS women are busy with something late at night. Perhaps they are busy with connecting Robin with Sledkom.

For the whole day of 24 March, the SS women continue to mobilize their volunteers to make false reports about the suspect's plagiarism and delusional expressions and impersonation in the PP posts. Then, 8:24 AM, a volunteer from Calgary, Alberta, looks up “My experience...”. Evidently, the SS women now want to add Gaurav to the Murakami girls' complaint, thinking that this might finally help them achieve the breakthrough they are seeking. Hardly! As for the suspect, he gets to talk to Wes on the phone on 2:20 PM today.

Conversation with Wes (24/03/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 1:46:30. (1) Should he work as a ghost writer? (2) He has developed a speedier method of reconstruction. The current ICJ trial is characterized by the continual cycle of dismissal and revival. The suspect wonders whether he might be correct in assuming that the Russian side is now on the defensive in the ICJ. The CIA might have obtained a judgment stipulating that Russia and the National Front have conspired with a bunch of terrorists, namely the SS women. The suspect is quite close to the truth here! But it's not yet enough to save Russia. However, none of this fits in with the suspect's preconception, that the current ICJ trial is orchestrated by the Russians themselves to replace the previous one to compensate the conspiracy against Russia in the previous round. “Nobody can ever win and nobody can ever lose. There must be a point!” Yet he doesn't see the point. (3) How did his new German tutor, Dorit, get connected with the SS women? Maybe Homeland Security has recruited her. Indeed! (4) What if the SS women broadcast an alert about him among German universities? But German Establishment is on the side of CIA and will broadcast the warning about the SS women over there. Can the suspect benefit from all this? But victims of slander never really recover from it – unless the recovery is conducted by the government. (5) Dorit believed he was going to Germany and that's why the Secret Service was investigating him. (6) About the suspect's difficulty in getting a job. It has happened three times: the employer would decline the suspect's inquiry about job offer merely upon seeing him. (7) Why the SS women feel wronged by the authority: their rationale is that, since the suspect is so detestable in looks, they have the right to want him dead, and don't understand why law enforcement doesn't buy that. (8) There seems to be a conspiracy to exclude the suspect from American society. And yet there is no such conspiracy. It's all based on his looks. Similarly, when the SS women make false reports about the suspects, law enforcement won't arrest them. It's again because he is considered inferior that law enforcement does not feel obliged to protect him from false accusations. (9) The suspect is hesitating about sending his entire critical theory paper to Humboldt University. About Nancy Fraser, then Rahel Jaeggi. About his McDonaldization paper. (10) Wes suggests that he get a job at the post office. (11) The SS women have so many volunteers in Germany. (12) Why can't US and Russia come to a compromise? Russia can't lose, and yet can't win... There is something wrong with his preconception, the trial shouldn't be pointless and continue forever... (13) The suspect and Wes then become engaged in a discussion as to why people judge others by appearance, but only certain parts of appearance. What exactly are the criteria? Wes: only those aspects that one can choose to alter. The suspect: people believe they are allowed to judge others by appearance when the appearance in question is indicative of a character problem. This philosophical discussion continues to the end of the conversation.

Afterwards, the suspect would be at the Visitors' Center meeting with the Missionary Sisters.⁹ As for the SS women, they believe they are making a decisive case tonight. 5:47 PM, they ask their hacker in Romania to compile a comprehensive index of the suspect's website which includes many of the 2008 recordings. This is to remind all law enforcement parties to respect women victims' "confidentiality". 8:55 PM, a volunteer from Oceanside is sent the link to acad.html, and she goes from there to thermex2.html and, 9:04 PM, clicks on originofmonogamy.pdf. She's probably filing a false report about the suspect's plagiarism. Then, throughout the rest of the night, the SS women continue to mobilize more volunteers to complain to Sledkom on behalf of Marie and Shizuka. They have no idea that both Marie and Shizuka are compromising their case behind their back by telling Sledkom that these women are frauds and that the suspect is not a danger to them at all. Again, Sledkom consequently finds it impossible to act, and Russians' case is stuck in the limbo in the ICJ.

Early morning of 25 March, 5:55 AM, the SS women send the Long Keng volunteer to conduct a status check: they are quite sure that, with the new help from Robin, Eva, Shizuka, and Gaurav, they would have achieved their breakthrough.

7 seconds later, the Long Keng volunteer comes to Academy:

9 From 2:45:00 onward. Sister M has got a new partner today. Nothing in particular tonight. The suspect merely discusses his doubts about the church with the Sisters.

No, the website is still up. Sledkom has been unable to fulfill their wishes. The SS women must have been mystified. Why? After much discussion, 6:32 AM, the Long Keng volunteer goes to Gallery.

The SS women must have continued to discuss the strange situation with the Long Keng volunteer. 8:28 AM, or almost two hours later, the Long Keng volunteer clicks on academylinks.html from acad.html.

In other words, the SS women have been discussing their strange failure with the Long Keng volunteer for almost four hours. Due to the unusual situation, the SS women send very few volunteers to the suspect's website in the coming hours. 11:54 AM, the SS women order a round of Site Explorer indexing. The index, however, only includes a folder of recordings (from November 2008). What is this about? 4:52 PM, a volunteer from University of Virginia at Charlottesville checks on the suspect's portrait of Shizuka on compupics.com one more time. The SS women are brainstorming why the authority has ignored Ms Kudo's complaint – unaware that it's Ms Kudo herself who has ruined their case behind their back. Again, there are very few visits to the suspect's website afterwards. 10 PM, another round of Open Link Profiler indexing. Then, 12:14 AM, another volunteer from Thailand joins the brainstorming by looking up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. The SS women's failure means as well that the Russians are unable to bring in favorable evidences at the ICJ and are about to get convicted again. Past 1 AM, the suspect posts on his Facebook another one of Nancy Fraser's lectures: "The significance of Rosa Luxemburg for Contemporary Theory".

It is now 26 March, a Sunday. On 10:43 AM, the SS women seem to be checking the suspect's Facebook. They would have discovered Professor Fraser's lecture. It's quite possible that they now want Professor Fraser to join their complaint process. If this is so, the CIA would recruit Professor Fraser as another mole inside the SS women's organization. It's not clear, however, whether Professor Fraser does have the time for this business. 7:57 PM, another volunteer from Clarksville, Tennessee, looks up Shizuka's portraits again on compupics.com. The rest of the visits to the suspect's website today seem to be decoys and brainstorming how to falsely report the suspect for plagiarism. There are a lot fewer visits today because the SS women are still recovering from their total defeat yesterday. As for the suspect, after midnight, he would post yet another one of Fraser's lectures, "Leaning IN, Leaning Out, Leaning On" (Eugene Lang College).

On 7:18 AM, 27 March, after the SS women have resumed operation, they send a volunteer to look up "TL-02-14". Then, 7:33 AM, the PP post. 9:37 AM, again. 12:19 PM, a volunteer from Newport, Florida, looks up "Prelude F-5C". This is only their second visit to this document! It seems that the SS women want to emphasize to all law enforcement parties once again that the suspect poses tremendous danger to his women victims due to his bizarre delusions about them. 2:39 PM, another volunteer from Istanbul looks up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. Between 4:50 PM and 5:50 PM, two more volunteers from South Korea look up Shizuka's portraits. 7:32 PM, the PP post. 8:54 PM, another volunteer from Madison, Wisconsin, looks up Shizuka's portrait. 12:05 AM, the SS women order Site Explorer to compile another index which includes those 2008 meetup recordings. This time, they are probably thinking of submitting an index to once again remind all law enforcement agencies involved to respect women victims' "confidentiality". 12:08 AM, another volunteer from Jakarta, Indonesia, looks up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. 1:47 AM, yet another volunteer looks up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. The fact that the SS women check up Shizuka's portraits six times today is indication that Shizuka, in order to conceal her status as a law enforcement mole inside the these women's organization, is pretending to be frustrated over law enforcement's inaction and ask all the volunteers to file more complaints on her behalf. None of it would of course make any difference – especially since she is secretly telling Sledkom behind everyone's back to ignore all the complaints on her behalf. Meanwhile, the SS women continue to compile false complaints about the suspect's plagiarism. Several volunteers from the Exeter College in the UK are especially involved.

On 28 March there is something unusual. Dr P would update her website today. Why? Is it related to the SS women's current impasse with Sledkom? As for the suspect, this is a traumatic day for him. He would discover that he has flunked TestDaf. The Russians have evidently obtained an ICJ order – on the basis that, the last time, he conspired with the CIA to raise his test score – enabling them, this time, to request that the German government lower his test score! It must have been weeks ago that the Russians had entered the suspect's low test score into the ICJ as evidence. The suspect is unable to sleep all morning, comes to downtown very early, sends an idiotic email to Professor Jaeggi, comes into Social Security Administration, and, while there, talks to Wes on the phone.

Conversation with Wes (28/03/2017)

The suspect is connected with Wes on 27:00. About the deflation of his TestDaf score. His score once inflated and now deflated, he has lost overall. This means Russia is winning. He has lost all his money too. The Russians have already won, they are now just replacing evidences. The suspect continues to complain: “The fact that Russia has won that's death sentence for me... I saved their lives, and yet they do everything to ruin my life. I'm so detestable that, even when I save people's lives, they just want me dead. These strange Russians! Since Angelica has ruined their lives, they help her. Just because they are victims, that doesn't mean they are nice people.” Wes: “Victims can be victimizers at the same time.” The suspect continues to speculate pessimistically: “All governments in the world are now obliged to consider the SS women as 'victims'...” The suspect, at this point (37:00), hangs up to take care of his business with Social Security Administration. He is then re-connected with Wes on 48:00. He rambles on out of anger: Homeland Security CO chief controlled him to break windows, and somehow this was legal under international laws... He needs to get the fuck out of this fucking country, people around the world don't know that, in America, the authority can implant chips inside people's brain, otherwise nobody will come to this country... There are not enough terrorist around, so Homeland Security has to insert chips into people's brain to turn nerds into terrorists, the ICJ judges are probably not allowed to know this, that must be why this is allowed, they don't wonder how this God-damned son of Latin American refugees can get into Homeland Security and insert chips in people's brain... There is one good thing, that Russia has won, now everybody in US Establishment knows the consequence of being politically correct... Ha ha ha! Thereupon the suspect hangs up.

The SS women however continue today to struggle with their impasse. 10:57 AM, another volunteer from Thailand looks up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. 6:44 PM, another volunteer from Casablanca, Morocco, looks up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. Then, 8:28 PM, the Saint Petersburg hacker comes to index the suspect's website (mostly his chapters on religions). 8:33 PM, a third volunteer looks up Shizuka's portrait. 9:04 PM, the Saint Petersburg hacker comes to index the suspect's website again. This time, a lot of materials from 2008 which the Site Explorer robot omitted earlier. As can be seen, the SS women are thus continuing their effort to persuade law enforcement agencies on all sides by relying especially on Shizuka's complaints. For the rest of the time, they continue to submit more testimonies about the suspect's plagiarism. Around 11:30 PM, they instruct a volunteer from Beaverton, Oregon, to forge more evidence of the suspect's plagiarism. 4:39 AM, a fourth volunteer from Saudi Arabia looks up Shizuka's portrait.

By early morning of 29 March, the SS women wonder whether all the complaints on behalf of Shizuka in the past two days have achieved effect. 6:17 AM, they send the Long Keng volunteer to conduct a status-check: (Rackspace Hosting):

180.150.157.9 - - [29/Mar/2017:07:17:59 -0600] "GET / HTTP/1.1" 200 3247 "-"

Gecko) Version/10.0 Safari/602.1.50"

No the website is still up. Apparently the work done in the past two days isn't enough to achieve a “breakthrough”. Then, 6:40 AM, the SS women send another volunteer to conduct a status check: ctw.btireland.net, Ireland. We have to wonder whether this is the Eircom guy (the hacker from the Dublin Institute of Technology).

7:36 AM, the SS women send another volunteer from South Korea to look up Shizuka's portraits on compupics.com. 2:32 PM, another volunteer from Warsaw, Poland, looks up Shizuka's portrait. 9:04 PM, the Oceanside volunteer who was here on 24 March calls up acad.html from her browser's cache and immediately goes to thermex2.html, and then Scientific Enlightenment Table of Contents. 9:06 PM, she clicks on thermhch2.html. Then, on 9:43 PM, she comes to the front page. One has to wonder whether she is also conducting a status check. 9:59 PM, another volunteer from Las Vegas looks up Shizuka's portraits. The rest of the SS women's visits (mostly to look up images on the suspect's website) seem to be decoys. This thus seems to be the case: when the SS women were disappointed in the morning that law enforcement didn't remove the suspect's website, they send two more volunteers to complain on behalf of Shizuka. They check again on 9 PM: no, law enforcement still hadn't taken action. They talked to the Las Vegas volunteer about the problem.

On 30 March, the US representative meets with Turkish government in Ankara today. Evidently, now that Turkey is convicted and doomed to become Russia's ally as compensation for Russia, the US wants to work out its relationship with Turkey in the future in order to retain as much of its former stake in Turkey as possible.

The third International Court of Justice trial over the suspect, XIII

October – November, 2017

As for the SS women's operation: Since morning, the volunteers from Exeter College are active again (descartes202.html). 10:08 AM, a volunteer from Boston looks up “Prelude-17D”. 10:27 AM, the Saint Petersburg hacker (last seen two days ago) compiles an index of the suspect's website which includes several of his chapters on feminism. Evidently, given their failure yesterday, the SS women want to submit more evidences to law enforcement agencies on all side to convince them that, because the suspect is dangerous due to his delusions about his women victims and his hatred toward womankind, his website must be banned. They then spend the rest of the day submitting more testimonies about the suspect's plagiarism.

On 31 March, the SS women will be launching their offensive again. 5:18 AM, they send a volunteer from Great Neck, New York, to make a complaint on behalf of Shizuka. 7:25 AM, another complaint on behalf of Shizuka (Seaford, New York). 7:42 AM, another complaint on behalf of Marie. 11:38 AM, the Eircom volunteer submits evidence proving that plagiarism (atpcycle.jpg) is indeed found on the suspect's website. 3:13 PM, a volunteer from Hamburg makes a complaint on behalf of Eva. (Recall that the Hobbersdorf volunteer from 8 February last year (a possible friend of Johanna's) was also making complaints on behalf of Eva.) 3:37 PM, a volunteer from Budapest looks up “Supplemental Pleading II”. What is this about? Is it a complaint about the suspect's stalking habit? Or are the SS women thinking of recruiting Ms Abi-Mershed? Strangely, on 5:48 PM, the Eircom volunteer compiles another index of the suspect's website – this time only of the index pages without any image to prove that plagiarism is found. What is this for? As for the suspect, from 6 PM onward, he would be with Derrick and other targeted individuals in a Pizza Hut in Huntington Beach attending a filming event with Vice. He would leave with Derrick by 9:30 PM. There are only two decoy visits during this time period. It's very likely that the same thing has happened again, i.e. LAPD's investigative unit has wired up the whole place and then seemingly given the SS women's monopoly over the surveillance in order to demonstrate to Sledkom how this group of fraudsters operate. When the SS women make false reports about the suspect's activities during the meeting to Sledkom, the American law enforcement officers will show the Sledkom team the surveillance of what the suspect has really done, thus forcing Sledkom into a corner where they can't carry out SVR's instruction for them to validate the case which the Murakami girls have first opened with them against the suspect. The SS women (i.e. Dr P) must have falsely reported that the suspect's complaints to the Vice film screw have demonstrated that he is completely unaware of (is in denial about) how gravely insane he is and therefore highly dangerous. This must be the case for, 1:55 AM, the women instruct a volunteer from Liverpool, UK, to make a report on “Kulturindustrie”, i.e. “He says here that believing people are going after him is not a sign that he is insane...” This, you recall, is Dr P's favorite argument since late October last year. By this time, the United States will have demonstrated to Russian law enforcement how insensitive these women fraudsters are to other people's thoughts and
